FARM STRIKERS DRIVE BACK 100 IOWA DEPUTIES

Sheriff's Men Attacked as They Try to Send Trucks Through.

U. S. FLAG RALLYING POINT FOR FARMERS

Police Officers Carry Rifles, but Do Not Shoot as Stones Hit Them.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Rallying around an American flag, a crowd of striking farmers today repulsed 100 sheriff's deputies who tried to provide safe passage through picket lines near here for a caravan of live-stock trucks.

As the officers in four large trucks bore down upon the angered farmers, the strikers raised the flag and, with shouts of "this is our country" closed in on the machines, hurled sticks and stones at the deputies, and turned the trucks around.

The farmers, who as members of the National Farmers' Holiday Association, seek increased farm prices by attempting to keep produce from markets, congregated at James, a crossroads village 9 miles from here, early today following reports of the truck movement. They numbered about 500.

A few hours after the encounter, W. C. Daniels, of Sergeant Bluff, chairman of the Woodbury County Farm Holiday Association, declared a truce in the strike except on Highway 75, on which today's clash occurred.

Deputies Withhold Fire.

On this road Plymouth County pickets refused to abandon their posts despite appeals from their leaders, with roads from Nebraska and South Dakota open to traffic, trucks carrying cattle and hogs entered the markets without incident. There was some peaceful picketing tonight, however, on two highways from the south.

Although Sheriff P. E. Rippey's deputies carried rifles, shotguns, baseball bats and clubs, they did not shoot, but put down their weapons when the farmers surrounded their trucks. Several officers were hit by stones, but were not seriously hurt.

It was learned that the strikers became embittered over an episode Tuesday, when Sheriff Rippey, of Plymouth County, and a few deputies escorted several trucks through the lines. One shot was fired then. Rippey said one of his men shot into the air.

After today's clash, Rippey returned to the 22 truck drivers who awaited him at a point a mile beyond James, and advised them to return to their homes in various parts of northwestern Iowa. This they did.

Dynamite Rumors Probed.

Tonight Sheriff Rippey was investigating rumors that the strikers had planned to ignite gasoline on the road if the trucks succeeded in getting through the first picket lines and that dynamite had been placed under a bridge between here and James.

Rippey declared he would not ask for military aid unless Plymouth

Mellon Says War Debts Out of Mind

Nobody Thinking About Them Now, He Says, Arriving in England.

Southampton, England, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador from the United States, returned to England today with the statement that "there is nothing to think about" in connection with war debts. For that reason, he explained, "nobody is thinking about war debts now."

Mr. Mellon insisted there was "no significance whatever from a financial standpoint" in his trip home. He said he did not meet Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and all he knew of the British banker's trip to America was what he read in the newspapers.

The ambassador smiled when he refused to comment on the outlook for prosperity. "Everybody's talking about that—it's too commonplace," he said.

Power Production Gain Best in Last Five Years

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Electric power production, one of Wall Street's favorite barometers of general business activity experienced its sharpest gain in months in the week ended last Saturday, according to the weekly tabulation of the National Electric Light Association, issued today.

While a sharp seasonal gain is expected in normal times at the end of August, the gain this year was the best in the last five years.

RELIEF EXPENDITURE PASSES SCALE LIMIT

$20,000 Given Last Week, Despite Order to Slash Output 40 Per Cent.

The emergency committee of the Board of Public Welfare yesterday decided to limit the amount of expenditures from the District unemployment relief fund to $50,000 a month after Leroy A. Halbert, director of the fund, had reported that close to $20,000 was spent last week despite instructions a week ago that the scale of relief should be reduced 40 per cent.

Expenditures from the $350,000 fund from August 1 to September 3 have amounted to $59,358.48, Mr. Halbert reported, as against $39,597.14 for the first four weeks. The money paid out during the last previous week was approximately $15,000. The increase in expenditures resulted from the gain in employment despite the slash in the scale of wages.

Out of 7,749 applications for aid filed with the relief headquarters, 4,436 have been given relief and 695 have been rejected. As 1,383 of the cases were transferred from charitable agencies and consequently needed no investigation, only 61 cases awaited clearance when the report closed.

The work relief pay roll amounted to $33,314.43, the cash relief pay roll to $1,929.01, and expenditures for groceries, milk, rent, and the like in emergency cases to $19,118.83. Administrative expenses have amounted to $4,634.45.

There were 538 new applications filed last week, and 906 were given relief. While the early demand has slackened slightly, it has by no means stopped, the report indicates, and so the number of jobs must of necessity increase.

Just how the expenditures are to be kept down to $50,000 a month, or approximately $12,000 a week, is left to Mr. Halbert to determine, just as was the general 40 per cent reduction. This figure is to be the maximum for September, October and November so that the fund will not be exhausted before Congress reconvenes.

The Monday Evening Club and other social agencies have previously filed protests with the District Commissioners against the proposed cuts in unemployment relief. They point out that the original scale was based on a bare subsistence and that any reduction will necessitate suffering even among those families which are given relief.

Nazi-Socialist Rioting Kills One, Injures Five

Leoben, Austria, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—One Nazi was shot dead and another seriously wounded in a clash with Socialists here today.

Hallein, Austria, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Four persons were injured, one of them critically, in street fighting between Socialists and Nazis today.

M'KEE PRESSES BATTLE AGAINST WASTE BY CITY

New York Mayor Says He Has Only Made Start on Cuts.

BOARD OF ELECTIONS ORDERS VOTE NOV. 8

Rules Office Vacant as Tammany Delays Decision of Running Walker.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—New York's new mayor, Joseph V. McKee, took the limelight today with a slashing attack on the municipal budget; while the decision on whether James J. Walker will run for reelection was delayed again.

The board of elections agreed with the city clerk that a "vacancy" exists in the office of mayor, and formally ordered an election to be held November 8. But whether Walker, who resigned last week, will be given an opportunity to have the "people decide the case" at that time was still undetermined.

John F. Curry, Tammany chief, indicated he and the four other Democratic organization leaders of the city may delay picking their candidate for more than a month.

The Post said there were reports that Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader and Gov. Roosevelt's secretary of State, would advance McKee as a candidate.

Flynn to Watch Events.

Flynn, one of the five organization leaders, was to have gone with Roosevelt on his stumping tour through the West next week, but at Democratic national headquarters it was announced James A. Farley, national chairman, would take his place.

"Without question," the Post said, "Mr. Flynn is staying here * * * watching for an opportunity to give his political protege the mayoralty nomination."

The Sun said that a "tide of sentiment against renominating Walker" has risen to "menacing proportions" and that one of the organization leaders "is ready to desert him (Walker) rather than make good on a 'bad promise.'"

The Sun reported that before Walker resigned an agreement was reached by the leaders that Walker would be renominated and that none of them would make any move or discuss the situation until they met again.

Although Tammany Chief Curry and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, have met since they returned to the city yesterday, there has been no conference with the other organization heads.

General Salary Reduction.

The World-Telegram said "Tammany leaders appear greatly alarmed by the praise evoked by the activities of Mayor McKee and his leap into the limelight, which they fear might

North Country Combed For 2 Altitude Fliers

Cormorant Lake, Manitoba, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Aviators in two planes searched in vain today for R. A. Gordon and Joseph Fortey, who failed to return as expected last night in Dr. R. A. Millikan's "flying laboratory."

Officials at the air base here believed the men were safe on some isolated lake, and possibly were forced down by gasoline shortage. Dr. Millikan sent them up with the recording instruments a few hours after his arrival here yesterday. His instructions were that they fly to 14,300 feet to take recordings, cruise an hour, and then continue to an altitude of 25,000 feet for further tests.

German Arms Change Held Barred by Pact

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, of Germany (left), and Edouard Herriot, of France, who are important figures in the German and French exchange of communications on armaments following Germany's demand for equality.

Versailles Treaty Blocks Plea, France Is Said to Maintain.

Paris, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The cabinet's reply to the recent German request for arms equality was unofficially understood to maintain that Germany's armaments were fixed by the Versailles treaty and that neither nation can modify the document that ended the World War.

The answer also was believed to infer that the real meaning of the German move is an attempt to increase the Reich's armaments.

The general tenor of the French note was expected to be that the answer to Germany's demand lies in a better organization for peace.

The reference to the Versailles treaty was understood to be in a summary of the political questions raised by the German aide memoire. Germany would be reminded that the Versailles treaty called for a general reduction rather than an augmentation of armaments.

Although the official communique issued at the conclusion of the session gave no hint of what had happened, it was learned that the French

JEAN HARLOW, ILL, TO AVOID INQUEST

Coroner Not to Compel Her Presence Today; Letters Reach Flood Tide.

Hollywood, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Physicians for Jean Harlow, film star, tonight reported her too ill to attend tomorrow's inquest into the apparent suicide of her husband, Paul Bern, and Coroner Frank Nance announced he would not attempt to compel her presence.

"She is in no condition to be moved, and it will be absolutely impossible for her to testify," said one of her physicians, Dr. Robert Kennicott.

The coroner, who previously had insisted on Miss Harlow's attendance "in order that certain angles of the case can be cleared up," said that on the word of the physician he had changed his mind and would do nothing to endanger the star's health.

Improvement in her conditions was indicated by her stepfather, Marino Bello.

"She is just beginning to show a little interest in what is going on," he said. "She is still a very sick girl. She has asked what is being done

French Aviatrix Sets New Altitude Record

Paris, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Mlle. Maryse Hilz, France's foremost woman flier, was officially credited today with establishing a new altitude record for her sex.

The International Aeronautic Federation accepted her record of 10,200 meters. The record was held previously by Mrs. Ruth Nichols, of New York, who flew 8,761 meters.

Britsh Rector in Court; Agrees to Quit Barrel

Blackpool, England, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The eccentric Rev. Harold Davidson, white-haired rector of Stiffkey, found himself at variance with the law again today and was forced to abandon his Blackpool "Barrel Fast."

He was brought into court charged with creating a public nuisance, but the complaint was withdrawn after he agreed with the promoter to Cancel his contract and refrain from further occupation of his barrel

Trotzky Will Visit In Czechoslovakia

Prague Specifies Radical Shall Avoid Politics on Health Trip.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The diplomatic paths have been cleared for Leon Trotzky, the exiled Soviet leader, to come to Czechoslovakia for his health.

It was officially announced that permission has been granted for Trotzky's limited sojourn at Bad Pistyan. A letter has been mailed to him and the only formality remaining is his signature under a promise to refrain from political activity while in this country.

Trotzky will have the right to stay only for the duration of his cure, and he can not arrive before September 15.

NEW ATTACK OPENS ON U. S. LEAVE CURB

District Supreme Court Gets Accrued Time Fight of Navy Yard Typist.

A second attack on the provisions of the new economy act which banned accrued leave to Federal employes was launched in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Alfred M. Gregory, a typist at the navy yard, sought and obtained a rule requiring the Secretary of the Navy and administrative officers at the navy yard to appear in court September 19 and show cause why Gregory should not be permitted to take leave that he had saved up before the act went into force.

Through Attorneys William E. Leahy and William J Hughes, jr., Gregory contended he had been denied leave that was accrued before the economy act and this, he declared, was in derogation of his contractual rights. He asserts also that the denial of the leave was, in effect, the taking of his property without due process of law.

The prior attempt to get the courts to construe the provisions of the economy act as it related to accrued leave failed when the petitioner, a telephone operator at the navy yard, ended her term of appointment before a ruling could be obtained.

The question is vital to hundreds of Government employes who in the past have saved up months of leave nad have this year been denied the right to take it. Foreign employes are particularly affected.

Poverty-Stricken Doctor Kills Wife

Former Boy Prodigy at Harvard Admits Slaying Spouse in Sleep.

Boston, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Towneley Thorndike French, crippled 57-year-old graduate of Harvard Medical School, who as a youth was considered a boy prodigy, was held without bail today for hearing September 15, on a charge of slaying his wife.

French, who told police he and his wife had been living on $7.50 a week, allowed to them by a medical society since she lost her job as an elevator operator several weeks ago, was described by his counsel as victim of the "abject despair of poverty."

"I couldn't bear to see her unhappy," French told police.

The physician walked into a police station last night and calmly told a lieutenant he had shot his wife as she slept in the one room they occupied in a lodging house. Son of an author and lecturer, French is a native of Hartford, Conn. He completed his medical course at 20, but had not practiced for many years.

Gov. Pinchot's Nephew Establishes Reno Home

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gifford Pinchot 2d, nephew of the Governor of Pennsylvania, has established a residence in Reno, supposedly for the purpose of obtaining a divorce from Janine Voison, formerly of the Paris stage.

Pinchot arrived here two days ago and retained an attorney.

SUBURBAN RATE ON WATER OVER CAPITAL CHARGE

Average Resident Pays $8.89 Yearly More Than Here.

GENERAL TAX LEVIED IN COUNTIES VARIES

Service Item Is Not Included in Bill for Supply in District.

The average home owner in the Washington suburban sanitary district pays $8.89 each year in excess of the amount charged annually to the average Washington property owner for water and sewer services. The figures used in this comparison exclude the front foot benefit charge levied by the sanitary commission, and what corresponds to that cost in the Washington system.

The basis of this comparison is a home assessed at $4,000, having a frontage of 50 feet, and using 56,000 gallons of water annually.

Sanitary District Charge.

Such a home in the sanitary district, excluding the front foot benefit charge would be charged as follows:

General tax (7 cents per $100)	$2.80
Water service charge	4.00
Water consumption charge (22 cents per 1,000 gals.)	12.32
	$19.12

The same home in the District of Columbia would be charged as follows:

General tax (sewer only, 3.7 cents per $100)	$1.48
No water service charge
Water consumption charge	8.75
	$10.23

The general tax in the sanitary district varies. Each year the county commissioners of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties certify to the sanitary commission the whole valuation of assessable property in the sanitary district.

Determining Tax.

The amount of the general water and sewer tax levy is determined by deducting all receipts on hand, including the front foot benefit charge, applicable to payment of interest and principal on outstanding bond from the amount necessary to meet the sinking fund requirements, and the difference is the basis for the general tax levy. This year the general tax is 7 cents per $100 valuation. The tax is levied by the respective county commissioners.

In the sanitary district the general water and sewer tax is applied to the interest and part of the principal on bonds used in the construction and operation of the sewer and water systems.

In Washington there are no specific tax rate items allocated on the tax bill to either water or sewerage construction and operation. All maintenance improvements, operation costs, &c., for the Washington water system

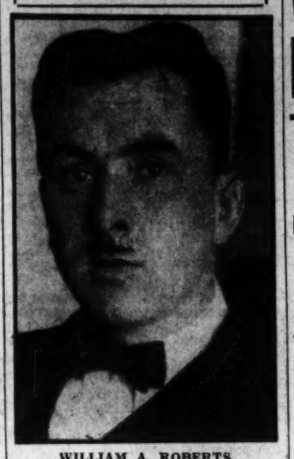
Haiti Sends New Treaty With U. S. to Congress

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A new treaty between the United States and Haiti providing for Haitianization of the Garde d'Haiti, among other things, was submitted today by the Haitian government to its parliament for ratification.

The document was worked out between the American Minister, Dr. Dana G. Monro, and the Haitian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Albert Blanchet, and was hailed as representing all the concessions to Haiti recommended by the Hoover commission headed by W. Cameron Forbes two years ago.

HITS PHONE RATE



WILLIAM A. ROBERTS.

P.U.C. TO ORDER CUT IN PHONE RATE SOON

Chesapeake & Potomac Firm Due to Fight Ruling; Hearing Ends.

The Public Utilities Commission is expected to issue an order instructing the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to reduce its rates within the next fortnight despite the fact that the record in the prolonged hearing concluded yesterday runs close to 2,000 pages. And the telephone company is expected to fight the order in the courts.

Culminating more than four months' investigation, the hearing was adjourned yesterday afternoon after counsel for the commission and counsel for the telephone company argued for an hour and a half each on the merits of their respective evidence. This argument is perhaps necessary from a legal point of view, but it was just so much waste of time from a practical standpoint as the utilities body has obviously decided to order the rate cuts.

William A. Roberts, special counsel for the commission, opened and closed the debate. He attacked the depreciation methods used by the utility in setting up its reproduction cost and declared that the estimate of $23,193,000 made by Thomas R. Tate, commission valuation engineer, is a fair value of the company's property.

B. A. Van Orsdel and George P. Hoover, counsel for the telephone company, defended their depreciation calculations and charged that the commission used as elements of value certain things which it recently declared are uncertain in a petition for interpretation to the District Supreme Court.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech spoke on the legal aspects of the hearing, and George Sullivan, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, demanded an immediate rate reduction and the inauguration of a valuation proceeding.

Priest Is Accused Of Kidnaping Girl

Chicago Searched for Him and School Teacher Who Is Missing.

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Search was extended to Chicago today for the Rev. William Courtney, of Alexis, Ill., and the 22-year-old school teacher he has been charged in a warrant with kidnaping.

Sheriff E. J. Welter left for Chicago, acting on information which he declined to reveal. Relatives of the teacher, Miss Collette Haley, said they had learned she spent some time in a Chicago rooming house last week.

Father Courtney became pastor at St. Theresa's Catholic Church at Alexis last Wednesday, having been transferred there from Buda after serving previously at Streator. He and Miss Haley were said to have known each other since childhood.

VETERAN UNITS IN DRIVE TO END TREASURY RAIDS

Illinois and Ohio Groups Are Organizing to Keep Faith With Public.

TOO MANY DEMANDS ARE HELD DAMAGING

D. A. V. Not to Take Part in 1932 Campaign, Except to Urge Voting.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Threats of open revolt in the ranks of the organized veterans if further money demands are made upon the Federal Treasury during the present period of economic dislocation reached the capital yesterday, from two Middlewestern States.

Strong factions affiliated with existing service-men's organizations are reported to have launched a national effort to check the rising tide of popular resentment against ever-increasing veteran demands. The projected new organization would be dedicated to genuinely patriotic objectives. Almost simultaneously, the rebellion against organized treasury raiding was reported in Illinois and Ohio.

Based upon the conviction that new demands upon the Federal Government at this time would create a damaging public reaction against all veteran activities, and thereby jeopardize even the legitimate disability grants now available to bona-fide soldiers, the reorganization movement is proclaimed by its sponsors as an effort to salvage as much as possible of the good name and constructive influence of the former service guild.

Appeal o Different Units.

The campaign is not directed against any one of the existing organizations, or against any particular group, but appeals to members of all units to reclaim favorable national standing for the entire veteran group.

Suggestions that the more responsible elements among the former service men reassert themselves in the national councils of the veterans' organizations have excited lively discussion in the military service journals since the fiasco of the bonus army. The project attracted wide attention in army and navy circles, but there appeared for a time to be no aggressive leadership for the house-cleaning movement.

More recently, however, the swelling thunder of public indignation over veteran demands in the face of the depression has given life to the citizenship movement among the rank and file of the service men.

Alarming Proportions.

The alarming proportions of the popular reaction against the recent excesses of some of the veteran organizations are cited by advocates of the reorganization as justification for their new program. They point out, for example, that three of the four leading national magazines carry in their September issues decidedly critical discussions of the present burden of nonservice-connected benefits.

A fourth periodical of Nation-wide circulation prints a vigorous denunciation of the reputable veteran leaders

Babe Ruth Stricken; Appendicitis Is Feared

Detroit, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth, the New York Yankees' perennial candidate for home run hitting honors, left for New York tonight to be examined and treated for what he fears is an attack of appendicitis.

He was seized with severe abdominal pains late today and, without notifying the Yankee management, boarded a train with his wife at 8:30 p. m. for New York.

The seriousness of his illness probably will not be known until he reaches New York and is examined by the club physician.

2 Cosmic Ray Airmen Down After 21,000-Foot Ascent

Made Forced Landing in Manitoba After Other Planes Began Search for Them, They Report; Dr. Millikan Optimistic Over Flight.

Cormorant Lake, Manitoba, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Flying Officer R. A. Gordon and Aircraftsman John Fortey, flying delicate instruments designed to investigate the cosmic ray, reached here late today after ascending 21,000 feet for Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the California scientist.

The airman hopped off yesterday with instructions to cruise at "the ceiling" of their powerful plane as long as they could. They failed to appear within a reasonable time and a search was started for them by air.

On their return the fliers explained they had made a forced landing at Oxford House, 300 miles northward, and were detained trying to free their ship from a sand bar.

The results of the flight into the upper air levels naturally can not be known until Dr. Millikan and his associates have examined photographic and other records of the instruments carried by the plane.

The Canadian flight is the second phase of Dr. Millikan's experiment to determine whether latitude has any effect on the cosmic ray. A flight at Marshfield, Calif., along the thirty-fourth parallel, has already been made. Today's experiment completed work along the fifty-fourth parallel. Dr. Millikan's party now will proceed to western Washington to check conditions along the forty-ninth parallel.

At Christmas time the American will announce the results of his tests

4 Young Bandits Shoot Girl And Patron in Bank Raid

Escape With $3,000, Failing to Wait for Vault to Be Opened After Shooting; Condition of Bookkeeper in North Chicago Firm Is Serious.

North Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Four bandits with nervous trigger fingers raided the Lake County State Bank on Sheridan road at noon today, shot a girl bookkeeper through the mouth, wounded a patron, and escaped with $3,000 loot.

The robbers fled in a sedan driven by a fifth confederate, without waiting for the bank president to open the vault. They scooped up hurriedly the $3,000 from a bookkeeper's cage.

Sauntering into the bank at noon, the youths displayed revolvers and shotguns. One walked to the cage where Mrs. Moneta Steffen was working, announced that a "stick-up" was in progress and then, apparently agitated, fired pointblank at the young woman.

She fell to the floor, an inch of bone torn from her chin and several shotgun slugs in her body.

Another robber, with similar amateurish excitement, fired a shotgun at Otto Gast, a patron, who received slugs in the arm and above the eye. He was not badly hurt, but Mrs. Steffen was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. Physicians said she would recover.

The bandits ordered the vault opened, but the shooting hurried them on their way with the cash taken from the cage. No trace of their car was seen after they fled northward toward Waukegan.

ROOSEVELT CHEERED ON VERMONT TRIP

Is Last Scheduled Journey Into New England Before November Election.

Rutland, Vt., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—On his last scheduled trip into New England before the November election, Gov. Roosevelt heard today the prediction that the strong Republican State of Vermont would give him "the largest vote that any Democratic candidate for the Presidency ever received in the Marble State."

Riding in an open car on a wind-swept day which had the chill of early fall, Mr. Roosevelt was met at Whitehall, N. Y., near the State line, by National Committeeman Frank Duffy and a welcoming delegation who escorted him to the State fair grounds for a brief extemporaneous address.

It was Duffy who made the prediction that Roosevelt would draw record-breaking support from Democratic voters in Vermont.

Streets Decorated.

"Mr. Roosevelt has an excellent opportunity to carry the State," Duffy said. Duffy swung his State's votes to the New York governor at the Chicago convention.

From Rutland, whose decorated streets were lined with cheering crowds, Roosevelt sped south through the Green Mountains toward Bennington for a meeting late in the day with State Chairman Park Pollard.

Tonight he returned to Albany to put his State and personal affairs in shape for his departure Monday on a three-weeks campaign tour which will carry him to the Pacific Coast and back.

Misses Delegation.

The Roosevelt party missed a large delegation which had assembled north of Whitehall about midday, expecting the candidate to drive that way.

Roosevelt chose a more direct route into Vermont, and arrived here early in the afternoon after his 100-mile trip from Albany. In a brief reception before lunch at a Rutland hotel, he met James P. Leamy, of West Rutland, Democratic candidate for governor. Mr. Roosevelt received a telegram from Gov. Stanley C. Wilson, at Montpelier, the State Capital, in which the Vermont governor expressed regret that a previous engagement prevented his greeting Roosevelt and renewing "our pleasant acquaintance."

Mr. Roosevelt's two companions, his special legal adviser, Martin Conboy, and his secretary, Guernsey T. Cross, wore heavy overcoats. The governor wore a light topcoat. Fast sailing clouds hid the sun much of the time, and the northwest wind was cold and cutting.

Sanders Opens Indiana Gubernatorial Campaign

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, in an address at a rally tonight opening the gubernatorial campaign of Raymond Springer, Republican candidate, characterized the 1932 election as "one of the most important in recent American history."

"The safe, sound leadership of our President," he said, "is our only assurance of better days to come. The consequence of a change in Federal administration at this critical juncture in our painful progress toward normal economic conditions would prove disastrous."

Sportsman and Wife File $500,000 Pact

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A half million dollar agreement was filed in court here today by Victor A. Searles, Palm Beach and Atlantic City sportsman, and his wife, Mabel Margaret Searles, in connection with a recent divorce suit brought by her.

In the agreement, Searles promises to provide in his will a $500,000 trust fund, the income to be used to pay annuities of $6,000 to $8,000 a year to their 5-year-old daughter, Betty Joan Searles.

DEPUTIES REPULSED BY FARM STRIKERS

County residents demanded it. Gov. Dan Turner, of Iowa, said recently he would call out troops only if the situation became too acute for county authorities.

As a precautionary measure, however, all Sioux City police were called in from their beats and ordered to hold themselves in readiness for duty should further trouble develop at James.

The executive said he had not received a copy of a resolution in which county leaders of the Iowa Holiday Association asked him to attend a governors' conference here Friday and to use his influence to obtain a middle Western embargo on all farm goods.

Program Farmers Suggest.

Plans for the conference, at which it is expected that the orderly marketing of farm goods will be discussed, were going forward today under the supervision of Gov. Green of South Dakota, who invited fifteen governors to attend.

Meanwhile, striking farmers formulated a program which provides in the main:

A moratorium of three years on Federal seed and feed loans.

A moratorium of two years on all real estate loans and an extension of the same length of time of the redemption period on mortgages already foreclosed.

A demand on the part of the governors that Congress take immediate action to increase the amount of money in circulation to such an extent that the price level will be raised at least to that of 1926 by the method embodying the principles of the Patman bill and by the issuance of Government bonds.

COSMIC RAY FLIERS DOWN IN MANITOBA

at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

As soon as his fears for the safety of the airmen and his delicate instruments were set at rest, Dr. Millikan was jovial and optimistic.

"The cosmic ray," Dr. Millikan said, "is similar in many respects to the gamma ray of radioactive bodies. It has a slight biological effect, it is believed, and is certainly the cause of ionization in the air, which causes thunderstorms."

Bingham and Trumbull Get Connecticut Renominations

Delegates of G. O. P. Convention Cheer Attacks on Prohibition; Senator Felicitates Hoover on Recoging Evils of Present Conditions.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—United States Senator Hiram Bingham was renominated by the Republican State convention today on a platform urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act.

The delegates, cheering every statement made against prohibition, "drafted" John H. Trumbull, governor from 1924 to 1930, to run for that office again.

The platform, which commended President Hoover's administration, asked return of the power to the States to "regulate, control, or if they will, prohibit the liquor traffic." It recommended revision of Connecticut enforcement laws to permit "automatic adjustment" to any change in the Federal statutes.

"We commend Senator Bingham for his efforts for repeal in the Chicago convention," said the platform, "and for his subsequent activities in the Senate which put to the acid test the sincerity of the professions of the Democrats."

The senator told the delegates he was glad the President in his speech of acceptance recognized the evils of the present situation.

"I differ with him, however, in one particular," said the senator. "We in Connecticut are very jealous of State rights. Consequently we do not agree with him that the Federal Government ought to supervise the way in which our General Assembly and our municipalities decide to control the sale of intoxicating beverages."

All convention action was unanimous.

Trumbull first took office after Bingham resigned as governor to enter the Senate.

Opposing him in the campaign will be Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, his successor, who is to be renominated by the Democrats tomorrow.

For member of Congress at large the delegates nominated Charles Montague Bakewell, long a Yale professor of philosophy.

The following were placed with Trumbull on the State ticket: State Treasurer Roy Wilcox, of Meriden, for lieutenant governor; John Danaher, of Hartford, assistant United States district attorney, for secretary of state; J. William Hope, of Bridgeport, for treasurer, and State Senator Anson F. Keeler, of Norfolk, for comptroller.

HOOVER PROHIBITION SCHEME DENUONCED

Connecticut Keynoter Calls It Most Astounding Plan of Any President.

Eastern Point, Conn., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Robert P. Butler, of Hartford, keynote speaker at the Democratic State convention, tonight called President Hoover's statement on prohibition in his acceptance address "the most astounding proposal that has ever come from the lips of a President."

"Mr. Hoover and the Republican platform," said Butler, "solemnly propose another amendment to the Constitution which shall give back to the States a limited power over liquor sales and distribution, but shall reserve to Congress some hazy and undefined power to veto the laws of any State whenever those laws do not conform to the terms of this amendment which has never yet been drafted, and whose scope and content nobody knows."

Butler charged Republicans with trying to "martyrize" Alfred E. Smith, who received the votes of the Connecticut delegation at the Democratic national convention. This was being done, he contended, to try to split the Democratic ranks in the East.

"Our Republican friends may not like Franklin Roosevelt," he said, "they may fear him for his liberalism, they may not agree with him politically, but the man does not live who can successfully challenge his moral and spiritual courage."

Butler attacked the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, Republican farm relief measures, and asserted the Republican party could not rightfully claim prosperity was dependent on a high protective tariff.

The convention tomorrow will select a State ticket, with a three-sided contest for the senatorial nomination heading the list. Prof. Harry Morgan Ayres, of Columbia University; Representative Augustine Lonergan, of Hartford, and Mayor Francis T. Maloney are the candidates. Gov. Wilbur L. Cross has no opposition for renomination.

B. E. F. Will Elect Officers on Oct. 4

National Convention to Be Held Near Uniontown; State Units Aim.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—More complete organization of the bonus expeditionary force with functioning units in every State is the aim of a national convention of the organization called for October 4 by Capt. Hoke Smith, national supply officer.

General officers will be elected and a new constitution and by-laws adopted at the gathering at Camp Sherry, near Uniontown. Capt. Smith is in charge at Camp Sherry.

He explained that numerous organizations are springing up within the B. E. F. ranks and that changes in governing rules must be made. Units with their own officers are planned for every town with district officers guiding larger groups. Units will care for needy veterans in their own area without overhead.

Operators Are Defied By Miners in Illinois

Gillespie, Ill., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Officials of the newly organized Progressive Miners of America today answered a statement of the Illinois Operators Association that they would have no dealings with the new organization, saying, "recognize us or use strike-breakers."

"We estimate we have 90 per cent of the Illinois miners with us," Arthur Hughes, secretary, said, in a statement approved by Presidnet Claude Pearcy. We have already signed up some members of the Illinois Operators Association, and are working on others. We don't expect to get the big fellows yet, but the smaller operators are both willing and anxious to get back to work, and will sign up. They know, and we know, that the big fellows of the association forced the so-called $5 wage scale in an effort to crowd them out."

Gold Rush Begins in Ontario.

Sudbury, Ontario, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Seeking gold newly discovered in Raney township, prospectors were rushing today into the Swayze area. News of the recording of 63 claims in the Ontario government recording office here has sent many gold-seekers on the hunt into the new field.

Diamonds Up 20 Per Cent.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The National Jewelers Association today announced receipt of cable advices from London and Antwerp reporting an average rise of 20 per cent in the price of cut diamonds.

SAVING OF BILLIONS CREDITED TO HOOVER

Jahncke Cites Many Steps Toward Economy Taken by President.

Searsport, Me., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, asserted in an address here tonight that President Hoover had "not only made our Government more efficient, but also saved our citizens billions of dollars."

"From his inauguration up to the present moment," he told an audience assembled at the opening of the final week of the Republican State drive in Maine, "the President's record on economy is clear-cut and straightforward."

The speaker enumerated reorganizations made within Government departments, consolidation of the Veterans' Administration, reorganization of the Federal Power, Radio and Tariff Commissions.

"You have all heard Government extravagance attributed to the Republican party by Democratic orators," he said.

"The Democratic candidate for President also has had a good deal to say about Federal economy in recent weeks," he declared. "The governor employs many words in his dissertation on economy.

"Doubtless it would take a good many more * * * to explain why, under his direction, the expenditures of the State of New York have increased almost $100,000,000 during his term of office."

Turning to the vice presidentiaal candidate of the Democrats, John Nance Garner, Jahncke said:

"In this period of hard times, Mr. Garner sponsored a bill which would have cost the people of the United States $1,200,000,000. It was a 'pork barrel' measure. Among other proposals, it contains authorizations for public buildings in small villages to be erected at a cost of from $35,000 to $50,000 exclusive of the site.

"The President denounced this bill in a scathing public statement."

Democrats of District Hold Meeting Tonight

Democrats of the District of Columbia, under direction of the Democratic central committee, will hold their first meeting tonight at Democratic Headquarters, City Club, 1320 G street northwest, at 8 o'clock.

Speakers of prominence will discuss party policies and a concerted effort will be made to line up every Democrat in the District to give whole hearted support in the coming campaign to elect the party's standard bearers. All Democrats are invited.

Prompt Action of Police Prevents Store Holdup

Prompt police action early yesterday forestalled an attempted robbery of a grocery at 320 D street northeast by a gang of boys.

S. S. Bosin, proprietor of the store, informed that he would be held up, called police, who arrested one of a group of boys after firing several shots at them. The boy was held for investigation at the Ninth Precinct station. His companions escaped.

50,000,000 Votes In November Seen

Junior Chamber Head Tells Hoover Record Turnout Likely.

(Associated Press.)

A prediction that the vote in November's presidential election will be the heaviest in history—approaching the 50,000,000 mark—was made to President Hoover yesterday by Courtlandt Otis, of New York, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Otis said he had delivered such a report to the Chief Executive as part of a Nation-wide "get out the vote" campaign. His organization is nonpartisan, but recently received an indorsement of this drive from the President.

Otis said he told Mr. Hoover also that the junior chamber was "in complete accord with the Government's mobilization of the Nation's business leaders, in the nonpartisan groups, to attack the major economic problems of the day."

13 German Reds Sentenced.

Beuthen, Germany, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Thirteen Communists, the alleged ringleaders of recent clashes with police at Rokittnitz after the dole had been cut, were sentenced from 6 to 24 months in jail today.

168,000 Germans Resume Jobs.

Berlin, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Unemployment declined 168,000 to 5,225,000 during the last two weeks in August, it was announced by the government today.

DEMOCRATIC RANKS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Leaders in Four States Report Outlook for Election as They See It.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—From Florida, Illinois, Alabama and Missouri came Democratic leaders to their party's national headquarters today with reports which they said were optimistic.

Senator Hawes, of Missouri, who had charge of the "Al" Smith campaign in 11 Mississippi Valley States in 1928, said "Missouri and the several States adjajcent to it will go Democratic in the coming election."

"Democratic sentiment in Alabama is as unanimous as I have ever seen it," said Col. L. J. Bugg, of Monroeville, Ala., a Roosevelt leader in the preconvention campaign.

"Those States in the South which voted for Mr. Hoover in 1928 are all back in the Democratic fold this year and most happy to be back."

Representative A. J. Sabath, of Illinois, conferred with James A. Farley, national chairman, and announced "Bright prospects for a big Democratic victory in our State."

Women's Support Reported.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative from Florida, and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, arrived with a statement that the women of the Nation "will not forget that Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his sound and humanitarian administration as governor of New York, gave social welfare as his defination of Americanism." She said she found women taking a keen interest in the campaign.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, and chairman of the Roosevelt-Garner labor division, in a statement called on the Hoover administration "to use the powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to arrest wage-cutting by railroads."

He said that his organization "is one of those to be affected by the proposed 15 per cent railway wage reduction, as the railroads own the railway express agency."

Miss Margaret West, daughter of a Texas ranch owner who is a neighbor of Speaker Garner, arrived at headquarters to do "whatever I can" to aid in the campaign.

Actor Joins Orators' Staff.

The placed herself at the disposal of the stage and screen division and said she expected to sing and tell cowboy stories at places where Garner speaks.

Robert Jackson, head of the speakers' bureau, announced that Erin O'Brien Moore, star of recent Broadway plays, will speak for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Connecticut and New York.

Farley announced he will accompany Gov. Roosevelt on the nominee's Western speaking tour, instead of Edward J. Flynn, the Governor's secretary of State. He will join the tour either at Salt Lake City, Utah, or Butte, Mont. Senator John S. Cohen, of Georgia, will also accompany the governor as vice chairman of the national committee.

While Farley is gone Arthur Mullen, national committeeman from Nebraska, will be in charge of headquarters.

The problem of raising campaign funds was discussed by the finance committee, but no announcement was made of receipts to date.

Independence Bill Rapped by Filipinos

One Only of Nine Witnesses at Manila Hearing Backs Measure.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Filipino leaders attacked the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill today at the second of a series of hearings intended to guide the insular Legislature's stand on that measure.

The bill, which would grant the islands independence after a minimum of fifteen years, is pending before the United States Senate. Of nine witnesses heard, only one—Sulpicio Serrano, labor leader at Cavite, where the Manila Bay naval base is located—has supported the measure.

Dr. Felix de Leon, member of a wealthy family of planters of Bulusan, ridiculed the manner in which he said Filipinos have paid obeisance to American officials. Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, he said, "with two words in Tagalog meaning 'How many children have you?' conquered the Filipinos like Napoleon conquered Europe, but more quickly."

MacArthur at Warsaw; To Witness Maneuvers

Warsaw, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United States Army chief of staff, arrived here today and departed almost immediately for Rovno for army maneuvers scheduled Thursday and Friday.

Gen. MacArthur and his party were met at the frontier by the American attache, Maj. E. Yeager, and received at the station by representatives of the Polish general staff, the government, the American embassy and a guard of honor.

Waters Questions Roosevelt onBonus

B. E. F. Commander Tells Nominee Midwest Is in Doubt on Stand.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt was asked today in a letter by Walter W. Waters, commander of the bonus expeditionary forces, to state his position on the bonus question.

Waters told the Democratic presidential nominee that on a recent trip to the Middle West he had found "extreme confusion existing in the minds of thousands of former service men" as to Roosevelt's position. A great majority of them, Waters added, are under the impression Roosevelt favors immediate cash payment, "and I feel that, in fairness to them, you should without delay state clearly your stand on this particular question."

Waters said he had noticed a statement in which Roosevelt said he would decline to answer any one except President Hoover on campaign issues, but expressed the hope the bonus question would be answered, notwithstanding.

Gen. Butler Will Speak In Behalf of Roosevelt

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Roosevelt independent State committee, announced today that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, former Marine Corps officer, will make a number of addresses in Pennsylvania and probably a few in other States in behalf of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate.

At his home in Newtown Square, Gen. Butler said that he had written a letter to Gov. Roosevelt some days ago offering his services as a speaker but had not yet received a reply. He said he stood ready to aid Mr. Roosevelt in any way.

Woman Leader of Wets Pledges Aid to Hoover

New York, Sept. 7. (A.P.).—Mrs. George Orvis, who in 1929 resigned as Republican national committeewoman from Vermont to work against the eighteenth amendment, visited the party's Eastern headquarters today and pledged her support to the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

THATCHER NOMINEE OF KENTUCKY G.O.P.

Will Run for Senate Seat; Resolutions Praising Hoover Adopted.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Representative Maurice H. Thatcher was nominated for the United States Senate by acclamation at the Republican State convention here late today.

The convention adopted resolutions praising President Hoover and indorsing the Republican national platform, but Thatcher himself was praised as an "everlasting dry," by former Gov. Flem D. Sampson, who made the keynot speech. Mr. Thatcher, in a brief address, thanked the delegates, said he stood on the Republican national platform and would outline his own platform later.

Sampson, long lined up with supporters of the eighteenth amendment, referred to all the Republican congressional candidates as "drys" and predicted the State again would rally to that cause. In answer to a public questionnaire shortly before the congressional primaries four of the Republican candidates who later were nominated said they stood on their party's national platform, one said he favored Federal prohibition and four did not reply.

Sampson denounced Senator Alben W. Barkley, recently renominated by the Democrats, saying he had wavered on the questions of prohibition and tariff, and denounced the Democratic Governor and General Assembly.

J. C. Speight, of Mayfield, was named to take Thatcher's place on the congressional ticket.

Swanson Goes to Parley With Nominee, Farley

(Associated Press.)

Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, left yesterday for New York and Albany for conferences regarding the presidential and senatorial campaigns with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Gov. Roosevelt.

Swanson is chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee.

We started to buy...

then our own sales went up 26%

An experience of interest to all businesses, large or small, that want to help speed up recovery.

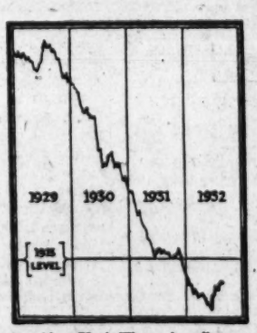
By James H. Rand, Jr., President
Remington Rand Inc.

WHEN we announced on August 25th that we had decided to buy immediately $4,500,000 worth of materials for the balance of 1932, our desks were flooded with congratulatory messages, including one from Secretary of Commerce Chapin.

We appreciate these expressions. At the same time we are pleasantly surprised to note that our own sales are now running 26% ahead of a month ago.

We don't know just what caused these increased sales. But we do know what a lift and what an optimism they have given our own organization. And we know that right today Remington Rand salesmen are spreading that feeling to many thousands of other business men, in every line of industry. Think what an endless chain such a movement can become.

In commodities alone, if all American industries were to place orders for four months ahead, upwards of 5 billion dollars worth of goods would immediately be scheduled for production.



New York Times Annalist Index Commodity Prices

And why shouldn't every industry buy commodities now? The necessary facilities are ready. In commenting on Remington Rand's action, the Wall Street Journal said editorially; "This is precisely the kind of thing for which the regional committees may wisely encourage manufacturers to borrow and banks to lend."

Moreover, the chart below by Colonel Ayres of the Cleveland Trust Company, shows that many commodities are now at the lowest point in 100 years.

More than that, the N. Y. Times Annalist shows that following the extreme drop of 1930-1931, commodity prices have gone up substantially since June.

We believe these facts alone will continue to encourage buying in almost every line. But there is one more selfish reason which goes beyond actual facts, and yet is as real as your own firm's good-will: When you buy now you kindle a spark that runs all through the organization . . . a dynamic spark that says, "come on now, lets go." And then sales come in.

BREAKS SEND FLOOD OVER 50,000 ACRES

Most of Inundated Lowlands Are on Mexican Side of Rio Grande.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The flood control system in the lower Rio Grande Valley faced its most severe test today as the raging border stream buffeted levees and overflowed a vast area in the lowlands, mainly on the Mexican bank.

Although the volume of water surging downstream was estimated to be more than the control system has carried at any time since it was built, engineers were confident the rich agricultural belt would escape serious damage.

"The short duration of the high stage will result in only a small amount of water coming down the floodway," said W. O. Washington, Cameron County engineer. "We anticipate no trouble with our levees and there is nothing alarming about the situation."

The crest of the flood was below the village of Hidalgo and was believed to have passed the inlet of the floodway. Water pouring through breaks in levees on the south bank inundated more than 50,000 acres of Mexican farm land.

On the American side, engineers expressed the belief that not more than 500 acres of farm land were under water.

On the American side the village of Hidalgo was in danger of being isolated. Water was backing into it to a depth of more than 2 feet and roads linking it with other communities were covered.

On the Mexican side of the river, residents of several small settlements were forced to flee. The town of Reynosa was almost surrounded by high water. The Mexican National Railroad line was submerged.

Several hundred refugees were in need of aid at Rio Grande City. They had evacuated ranch and farm homes in the lowlands and moved to the hilly sections with their belongings. Relief agencies were trying to provide them with food and shelter and to prevent disease.

Farther upstream in the wide area where the flood resulted in millions in damage and some loss of life last week a renewal of heavy rains caused the Rio Grande to rise again.

Gold Mining Seen In Pennsylvania

Mines Closed 160 Years May Be Reopened as Industry.

Upper Black Eddy, Pa. (U.P.).—Gold mining, almost unheard of in Pennsylvania for more than 160 years, may be revived as an industry along the Delaware River.

A deposit of auriferous rock, washed down the Delaware Valley from the north centuries ago during the glacial period, and successfully mined during the pre-Revolutionary days, has been rediscovered in Bucks County.

Traditions of the section tell of the days when eastern Pennsylvania was a center of the gold mining industry, but few present-day Pennsylvanians know of the story. Yellowed records in the register of wills office in Doylestown reveal the existence of the mine on the old Penn grant called Nockamixin, which now forms a part of Bucks County.

The present owner of the tract, Alexander Ewald, has taken many samples of the soil for assay. They ran from 20 cents to $1,500 a ton, with an average of $15 a ton, according to the assayer's report.

The county reports show that the mines were operated by the Williams and Wentz families before the Revolutionary War, but when the men of the families joined the Continental forces all operations ceased.

British Heavyweight Champ Goes Dempsey

Cardiff, Wales (U.P.).—Jack Petersen, the new British heavyweight champion, is to have his nose reset.

During an elimination contest at the Crystal Palace in 1930, he had two fights in the same evening and Charlie Smith, the Deptford heavyweight, did the rest, when they met to determine who would meet Reggie Meen for a title fight.

His disfigured nose caused much consternation among the weaker sex when shown on the screen after winning the champion ship.

CHICAGO TAX FIGHT GOES TO HIGH COURT

Fraud Charged by Property Holders in Plea to U. S. Supreme Tribunal.

(Associated Press.)

To the accompaniment of charges of "deliberate, collusive and fraudulent action," Chicago's tax fight was carried before the United States Supreme Court yesterday by James E. Bistor and 2,500 other Cook County taxpayers.

Asking the court to set aside taxes imposed on their real estate for 1929, the petitioners charged that the Illinois Tax Commission, the Cook County Board of Assessors and the county board of review "had for years carried out a deliberate, fraudulent and illegal plan" of taxing personal and real estate property in Cook County. They accused the taxing authorities of ignoring the uniformity clauses of the State and Federal constitutions by imposing on real estate a disproportionate burden.

In May, 1931, these taxpayers asked the Circuit Court of Cook County to enjoin collection of the taxes assessed on their real estate. The court dismissed the complaint and the Illinois Supreme ourt affirmed that action.

The taxpayers cnotended it was out due process at law and to deny proposed to take their property within violation of the Federal Constitu- them the equal protection of the law, tion.

They asserted the real estate in Cook County on April 1, 1929, had a value of $10,000,000,000 and personal property $30,000,000,000 but that 83⅓ per cent of the tax burden for that year had been levied on real estate and 16⅔ per cent on personal property instead of 75 and 25 per cent.

Collection of taxes as imposed for 1929 in many cases would result, they contended, "in the compulsory sale of their respective real estate at ruinous prices under present conditions, and result in complete loss of property of many."

Among counsel for the taxpayers was Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor General.

The Supreme Court, shortly after it meets in October, will decide whether it will grant the review.

Junkyard Now Model Village in Wisconsin

Portage, Wis., (U.P.).—A junkyard formed the nucleus for an attractive little roadside village near here which has not felt the effects of the depression.

The village is Packardville, built during the past five years by Lance Packard, 33, who started with only a few dollars. The village now is free of debt and has public playgrounds, free ball parks, recreation grounds, bandstand, pavilion and tourist park.

Failing at farming before he was 30, Packard started selling shears and grinders and saved enough money to buy two old cars. He junked them and made $20 and continued buying and junking more cars.

Then he borrowed money and purchased the 40 acres on which the village now stands. Packardville now has ten cabins, two filling stations, a grocery store, garage, electric light and storage plant, and dwellings.

SUBURBAN RATE ON WATER HIGHER THAN CAPITAL CHARGE

tion charge of $8.75.

A part of the annual tax rate of $1.70 per $100 valuation levied against Washington property owners is applied to maintenance, construction, operation, &c., of the sewer system.

District government officials estimate that approximately 3.7 cents is a fair estimate of the amount paid for sewer improvements, maintenance, &c., out of the $1.70 per $100. This figure was used in the above chart.

In the sanitary district area, the home owners are charged $4 a year for what is known as a water service charge. This represents the cost of reading the meter, billing and collecting bills twice yearly, the cost of and the depreciation of the meter and its repair. A part of the receipts from this source are also applied against the cost of water used for public purposes, which is a part of the overhead of the operating department.

There is no extra charge for this service in the Washington water system, the cost of meter reading, maintenance, depreciation and repairs of meters, are all included together with the maintenance, improvements, &c., costs of the water system, in the minimum consumption rate of $8.75 for about 56,000 gallons.

The consumption charge in the sanitary area includes a part of the cost of the water used for fire department purposes and by municipal buildings. This cost also represents the expenditures for producing, pumping, electrical current, distribution of the fluid, maintaining the water mains and sewers, plus a part of the interest and sinking fund requirements on the investments in the filter plants and pumping stations.

In the District of Columbia, the consumption charge includes the cost of the water to the District, depreciation, distribution, maintenance and repair of mains, meter reading, and meter maintenance, &c. The District consumption rate does not include any sewer maintenance items, because the sewer construction and maintenance work is under a separate department of the District government.

JEAN HARLOW ILL, MAY AVOID INQUEST INTO HUSBAND'S DEATH

h Paul's body, htdnagienkslithm with Paul's body, and things like that, but that is about all."

At her studio is was said work would proceed on the picture in which she is starring. The company can work ten days on scenes not requiring her presence, according to officials.

Letters and telegrams to Miss Harlow which began to arrive soon after her husband's body was found reached flood-tide today. Mnay were from strangers who ha dseen her on the screen, and scores came from film and stage folk. There were several attempts to communicate with her by telephone from points near and far.

The Examiner said studio executives and friends had decided that "Paul Bern's sorrowful secret and the motive behind his suicide will be revealed to his brother, Henry Bern, and to no one else before him."

The brother was on his way here by airplane from New York.

The Examiner said it had been learned the coroner's autopsy disclosed a fact concerning Bern's physical condition which may have contributed to the tragedy, but that he was in all other respects normal.

Nance said the inquest would not be delayed to receive testimony of Bern's physician, Dr. Edward B. Jones, who was quoted from Honolulu as saying he understood a motive Bern might have for killing himself.

Friends of the producer and writer, whose body was found in his canyon home Monday with two pistols nearby, after he had refused to join his bride of two months in a dinner Sunday night at her mother's home, have consistently attributed his apparent suicide to an unexplained melancholia, describing him as a "student" of suicide in the philosophical sense.

Miss Harlow told detectives yesterday she was unable to give any reason why he should take his life.

Saved by Mayor.

She was reported under surveillance of friends today as the result of her rush toward a 10-foot balcony at her mother's home yesterday in hysterical grief.

Louis B. Mayer, film executive, said he stopped her progress toward the balcony. Whether she actually meant to leap was not established. Mayer quoted her as saying "let me go to him. He needs me. Is it too late?" Previously she had seemed unable to comprehend that Bern was dead.

One of the witnesses to be summoned for the inquest, the coroner said, is Henry Bern, brother of the producer, who was quoted by the Kansas City Star as saying the latter had been supporting in a sanitarium, a woman with whom he, Paul Bern, had lived many years before his marriage to Miss Harlow.

Henry Bern was quoted as saying the actress knew of the affair, but Marino Bello, Miss Harlow's stepfather, expressed opinion to the contrary here today.

"We knew nothing of Bern's past life," Bello said. "I do not say that I believe such a story, but if I had known it before Bern married Jean, the wedding would have taken place over my dead body."

Henry Bern was quoted as saying that the unnamed woman he referred to had suffered a nervous breakdown and derangement, but that Paul was not responsible for it, that he did not conceal the affair and lived "openly."

Dr. Jones consulted with Mayer by radiophone from Honolulu, but declined to disclose what was said. He asserted he had no doubt that Bern's death was by suicide and that the inquest could be only a formality.

Coroner Nance said one of the angles of the case to be investigated tomorrow was why the producer's death was not reported officially for some two hours after the body was found, saying the delay might have afforded opportunity for suppression of evidence.

Rumors that a note other than the one already made public had been found near Bern's body were discredited by police today. In the note which police have, Bern referred to a "frightful wrong I have done you" (Miss Harlow) and said "this is the only way to make good."

Brother Leaves Kansas City.

Kansas City, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Kansas City Star quotes Henry Bern, en route to Hollywood to investigate the death of his brother, Paul Bern, as saying that the motion picture executive until his death had supported in a sanitarium a woman with whom he lived many years before his marriage to Jean Harlow.

"He had no secrets from anybody," said the New Rochelle, N. Y., business man. "No secrets except that last one. I will be frank about him. Paul was never married before, but he lived with a woman once, a long time ago.

"She had a nervous breakdown, a derangement. He had nothing to do with it. He was not responsible for it. But he took care of her just the same, just as it she had been his wife. It was expensive, but he did it gladly. He has kept her in a sanitarium ever since."

With an effort to restrain his emotion, Bern continued: "Miss Harlow knew of it. Paul told her. Many of his friends knew it. He did not conceal anything. He lived openly."

Bern arrived her by airplane last night and contipued his journey today. He declared his brother had been extremely happy in his marriage to Miss Harlow and that Paul Bern's health was good.

Sun May Provide Power for Earth

Needs of World Studied When Necessities of Life Are Exhausted.

Saginaw, Mich. (U.P.).—How to use the power of the sun for earthly needs, when the supply of coal and other such necessities is exhausted, is the quest of science today, according to Dr. Charles E. St. John, famed astronomer.

Dr. St. John said he is organizing scientists from all over the world to coordinate their efforts in observation of the sun and terrestrial phenomena. He said there was a connection between what happens on the sun and events on the earth, and that science must find that connection.

The astronomer asserted that radio effects, magnetic storms and the aurora borealis were being studied in an effort to find out what happens on the earth and sun at the same moment.

The scientist referred to those vast whirlpools on the sun's surface, which, he said, may be as much as 50,000 miles across. These whirlpools may have some part in the vast solar system, he said. He pointed out that the sun is now known as a gaseous body, though of tremendous density at the center, while discussing the accepted theory of matter.

VALLEE AND BRIDE WON'T BE DIVORCED

Fay Webb Abandons Reno Plans; "We Are in Love Again," Actress Says.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Rudy Vallee and his bride have patched up their troubles and decided not to be dvorced.

Reconciliation of the couple, married thirteen months, was announced first by the young actress wife, the former Fay Webb, who had come to Reno to sue for divorce. The band leader and singer confirmed the news at Atlantic City, N. J., saying "anything she may decide is all right with me."

Any difficulties that may have upset their domestic happiness were patched up in a midight conversation over the telephone lines between Reno and Atlantic City, and today the demure Miss Webb announced, less than 24 hours after her arrival here, that she and Rudy were in love again.

"It was all a mistake," she confessed. "I know now that I was just a little fool to even think of a divorce."

"Rudy," she added, "never wanted one, although he was just a perfect dear and told me that if I thought a divorce was best, why that wass what I should get. But I was wrong, and we love each other more than ever now. We both admitted that last night."

Accompanied by her father, C. E. Webb, Santa Monica, Calif., police chief, Mrs. Vallee, left Rneo by train for San San Francisco and Santa Monica. Aftre a brief stay in southern California, she will return to New York to be with hed husband.

She arrived here yesterday, admitted she would establish divorce residence and said that a reconciliation was impossible. She was preceded a few hours by Hyman Bushel, attorney for Vallee, who said he would make arrangements for the legal details of the divorce proceedings.

Mr. Bushel was highly pleased today at the turn of events, because, he said, "this divorce business was just a bunch of foolishness anyway." The Vallees were wed in New Jersey July 6, 1931. The marriage was the first for Miss Webb and the second for the radio singer.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 7 (A.P.). Rudy Vallee, who is playing an engagement in a beach front pier here, said today in regard to the decision of his wife, now at Reno, to call off her plans for a divorce, "Anything she may decide is all right with me."

"The decision is her own," he said. "If there is any statement to be made, I prefer that she make it. Anything she may decide is all right with me." He would not amplify or discuss plans for reconciliation.

ARMS BOOST IS SEEN AS AIM OF GERMANY

note probably will be forwarded to Berlin Friday and will be published the early part of next week.

Government circles were authority for the following outline of the note:

1. It contains an inference that the German request means an increase in German armaments.

2. It contains a summary of the international political situation in which it is said that Germany chose a bad moment to present her request, as the Geneva disarmament conference has not had a chance to complete an international arms convention.

3. It mentions juridical treatment of the German demand in the light of the Versailles treaty.

The text, signed by France alone, has been submitted to the nations that signed the recent European pact of confidence, all of which, with the exception of England, have replied.

Berlin, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The government prepared today to plunge Germany into the turmoil of another election, the fifth this year, in the event that the Reichstag proves recalcitrant when it meets again next week.

The date tentatively selected for the voting is November 6. The election will be held if the Reichstag is determined to place on its agenda a motion of no confidence in the ministry of Chancellor Franz von Papen or a measure designed to cancel the economic program drawn up by the chancellor and made effective by emergency decree.

On the day the new Reichstag held its first session, August 30, President von Hindenburg signed an undated decree dissolving the Reichstag, and the chancellor may wield this club whenever he sees fit.

Believed Much Stronger.

The decision to hold another election was based on the government belief that the Von Papen ministry is much stronger with the public now than it was at the time of the last election, when it had been in office only a short time.

Negotiations looking toward a coalition of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and the Centrist party were continued today, but government observers asserted they were not likely to lead to a result that would be satisfactory to President von Hindenburg.

Hence the only chance of the Reichstag avoiding dissolution was through adjournment, which would mean tacit toleration of the Von Papen ministry. The government has only a handful of supporetrs in the Legislature and the chancellor has indicated he would forestall any vote of no confidence by promulgating the decree of dissolution.

Would Leave Conference.

While the government proceeded with its plans to cope with the Reichstag, public interest was centered in the diplomatic negotiations with France over Germany's demand for equality in armaments with other nations. Publication of the text of Berlin's aide memoire to France shows that the Reich would withdraw from the World Disarmament Conference unless the arms question was settled to her satisfaction.

VETERANS ORGANIZE TO CHECK DEMANDS

for having permitted exploitation of the service men in the futile bonus march on Washington. Seldom in history has a developing national problem focused the attention of four editorial chambers simultaneously. In addition, say the reorganization leaders, public resentment finds expression almost daily in the editorial comment of newspapers in all sections of the country.

No Active Part in Campaign.

Hard upon the news of the break in the veteran ranks came the announcement yesterday from William Conley, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, that that organization wuold take no part in the coming elections except to urge each member to vote.

"While there has been much talk of organizing veterans into one unit, the Disabled American Veterans has no part in such plans," Mr. Conley said. He pointed out that the membership of the organization included members of all parties.

"The organized disabled fully realize that they are speedly approaching a crisis and with the opening of the next session of Congress will be face to face with a severe assault upon some of the existing laws. Foreseeing this situation, the D. A. V. in natical convention at San Diego last June, voted to concentrate upon the conservation of the benefits now received by men who are today handicapped as a result of disabilities of war origin.

Course Is Chartered.

We have charted our course and intend to use every possible influence to save the service-connected disabled men from hysterical application of restrictions in the name of economy."

Recent compilations of veteran expenditures for the fiscal year 1932 show that the United States spent $2,668 from the Federal Treasury during the year for every soldier killed or wounded in the World War. The comparable outlay in France was $50.99, and in Great Britain, $58.27. On the basis on the number of men mobilized during the war period, the United States spent $180 on veteran functions last year, against $34 in France, $24.49 in Great Britain, $22.98 in Germany and $12.44 in Italy.

False Alarms Held Holdup Gain Cause

Police officials stated yesterday that the increase of hold-ups and robberies carried on their books in August in comparison with August, 1932 was due to false reports.

Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea, head of the robbery squad, stated that arrests of hold-up men had increased, and that there is no cause for alarm. Acting Chief of Detectives B. W. Thompson said yesterday that the increase was due to the large number of reported taxicab hold-ups, a large number of which he termed false.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, asked for a report of the increase in robberies, but stated that a slight rise was to be expected due to the economic situation. Washington's increase, he said, was negligible in comparison with other large cities.

RULING ON BUILDING FUND CUT PUZZLES

Loophole, Whereby All May Go for Construction, Is Seen.

(Associated Press.)

A ruling by Comptroller General McCarl that the 10 per cent cut on construction funds provided in the economy act be applied to the $100,000,000 public building program in the Garner-Wagner relief law yesterday disturbed officials at the Treasury where two interpretations were placed on the decision.

Legal officials said they thought they had found a loophole whereby the entire amount could be used for construction purposes despite the ruling.

One interpretation was that limits of cost on the individual projects would be reduced 10 per cent, leaving the remainder for additional buildings. Another was that the decision meant a flat reduction of $10,000,000 in the lump sum.

Definite Settlement Due.

Definite settlement of the question will be sought before Secretary Mills decides whether the Treasury can afford to undertake the prgoram at this time.

Indications are that Secretary Mills and Postmaster General Brown, who constitute an Interdepartmental Board, will approve at least a portion of the program.

The Treasury asked McCarl for a decision on the 10 per cent cut, saying, "It is not believed that it was the intent of Congress to consider this provision as a modification by law" of the $100,000,000 program.

McCarl responded by quoting a provision of the economy act that "appropriations available for the fiscal year 1933 for public works, whether contained in this act or acts prior or subsequent to the date of the approval of this act" would be slashed one-tenth.

It was first explained at the Comptroller's office that the total would have to be carved from $100,000,000 to $90,000,000, but on subsequent questioning, the opinion was expressed that only the limit of cost on the various projects would be affected and the money saved would be available for other public construction.

Ruling on Placing Cut.

At the same time, McCarl's office said the cut would be applied to the $323,224,000 total of tthe relief law section covering public construction. In this $120,000,000 is authorized for Federal highway aid, $30,000,000 for river and harbor projects, $15,500,000 for flood control, $10,000,000 for Boulder Canyon Dam, $10,000,000 for naval store stations, $15,164,000 for construction at military posts, and the remainder for various smaller projects.

Meanwhile, the Treasury reported it had authorized $496,463,942 of its $700,000,000 public building program. The report showed 230 buildings costing $71,400,219 had been completed, that 382 costing $324,588,323 were under construction, and that bids had been received on 136 projects costing $42,172,900.

Altogether, 1,800 projects are provided in the program, including those under the Garner-Wagner bill.

Gloria Swanson Posts Bond to Save Furniture

Los Angeles, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A $7,500 surety bond was posted today by an attorney for Gloria Swanson, film actress, to prevent seizure by the sheriff of $14,000 worth of luxurious furnishings in the Swanson home to satisfy an attachment obtained by William J. Saylor, New York importer.

The surety bond, the attorney said, will guarantee satisfaction to the claim and prevent removal of the furniture until the litigation is settled.

Longshoremen Gather For Wage Discussion

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—About 100 delegates representing locals of the International Longshoremen's Union from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va., gathered today to discuss the stand they will take next Monday on the wage situation. At that time they meet with employers to sign a new working agreement to replace the one expired September 30.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the union, said the present deliberations would continue through this week and no statement would be issued until after the joint conference Monday.

Employers to Arbitrate British Textile Strike

Manchester, England, Sept. 7 (A.P.). Hope for improvement in the textile strike here was engendered this afternoon when the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association said they would attend, if invited, a meeting under the auspices of the ministry of labor to arbitrate the dispute with the unions.

A representative of the union said the employers had gone further than the workers had expected.

The Business Upturn

Babson Official Says Upward Trend Means Better Trade in 1933; Steel Production Gains; Return of Workers to Jobs Continues.

(Associated Press.)

Optimistic business developments yesterday included the following:

Wellesley, Mass.—Better business in 1933 was predicted by Ralph B. Wilson, vice president of the Babson Statistical Organization. He said the trend was upward and the depression would be over, if governmental costs could be reduced 15 per cent.

Chicago.—The Illinois Chamber of Commerce reported "business is picking up" in 32 Illinois towns and cities. Reopening of garment factories, increasing of railroad employment, public construction, and resumption of coal mining operations were listed as favorable developments.

New York.—A gain of 1½ per cent in steel ingot production was reported by Iron Age. Production has reached 14½ per cent of rated capacity. A large number of orders for steel from railroads and automobile manufacturers were reported.

Chicago.—The Diamond T Motor Car Co. reported a "distinct and seemingly sustained pickup in business." Sales for the first half of August were reported 8 per cent above the entire month of July.

Chicago.—Bradstreet's review of Chicago trade made public a survey showing increased sales to retailers in almost every line of business. Favorable sentiment caused by rising stock and commodity markets was given as the chief reason. Dry goods and general merchandise sales were reported up 15 per cent for last week, compared with a year ago.

Fort Smith, Ark.—Coal fields of western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma, idle for months as operators and workers argued wage scales, give promise of renew activity and employment for hundreds of men.

Port Newark Base Lease Is Defended

Suit to Compel Secretary of War to Cancel It Answered in Court.

The court fight instigated by a group of New York terminal and warehouse concerns to compel Secretary of War Hurley to cancel the lease the War Department made with the Mercur Corporation, by which the corporation gained the use of the 136-acre tract of land known as the Port Newark Army Base, for a term of ten years, was met yesterday in the District Supreme Court when Assistant United States Attorney John J. Wilson filed the Government's reply to the suit.

Wilson contended the lease with the Mercur Corporation was entirely within the discretionary powers granted to the head of the War Department. He said Congress had specifically given the War Department permission to sell or lease surplus land.

The New York concerns had asked the District Supreme Court to issue a mandamus compelling the Secretary of War to cancel the lease on the ground that there was no authority in law for it. The case will not come to trial until late in the fall.

Textile Trade's Wage Scale Hit

Hall Discounts Benefits of Increased Activity in Virginia Mills.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Pointing to the increased output of textile mills in Virginia during the last few weeks, John Hopkins Hall, jr., State commissioner of labor and industry, said today he would "hesitate to count such a situation as a healthy sign" because of low wages paid to the workers.

Although he said he recognized an "undeniable" increase in the work now being done by Virginia mills and garment factories, Mr. Hall asserted that "prices remain extremely low for the finished product and the result is now wages—scarcely enough to live on."

Other industries, he added, are not showing the increased activity noted in textile mills.

Greta Garbo Is Confined At Home With Bad Cold

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 7 (A.P.). Greta Garbo was confined today to her island home near here with a bad cold. The movie actress cancelled all social engagements.

Attendants said she was in a fretting mood, because of her inability to be with her mother in Stockholm, who also is ill.

Lame Duck Amendment Is Ratified by Texas

Austin, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Texas Legislature ratified formally today an amendment to the Federal Constitution which would eliminate the "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

The proposed amendment would provide that new members of Congress take office at the start of the regular session following their election.

Mrs. Caraway Honored In Naming of Twin Girls

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway—herself the mother of three sons—has just been notified by another Arkansas mother that her twin girls have been named in honor of the country's first elected woman senator.

As a mother, Mrs. Caraway said, she appreciated the honor bestowed upon her by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clark, of Laneburg, Ark., whose girls have been named Hattie Caraway and Mattie Caraway Clark.

Pope Is Optimistic On World Outlook

Tells Erie, Pa., Bishop Things Are Beginning to Right Themselves.

Vatican City, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Pope Pius, granting a private audience today to Bishop John Mark Gannon, of Erie, Pa., expressed a distinctly hopeful view of the world situation and seemed confident that things are beginning to right themselves, the bishop said. He seemed to take pleasure in the bishop's similarly optimistic view of conditions in many countries where he has been traveling.

The visitor presented five students from the Erie diocese, who are attending the American College in Rome. They were Joseph Grode, Carleton Richie and Joseph Whiteman, of Erie; William Anderton, of Oil City, Pa., and Eugene Monti, of Ridgway, Pa.

From here the bishop is going to Cannes, where he will assist on Sunday at the dedication of the new Church of Notre Dame des Pins, built by the widow of James T. O'Neil, whose home was in Bishop Gannon's diocese. The body of Mr. O'Neil, who died on the Riviera a year ago, will be placed in a chapel devoted to his memory.

Premier of Bulgaria And His Cabinet Quit

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Premier Nicholas Muschanoff and his cabinet resigned today but King Boris commissioned him to form a new government immediately.

M. Muschanoff submitted the same personnel except for the ministry of agriculture and public works in which Gheorghi Yordanoff was replaced by Virgule Dimoff, political secretary of the Agrarian party. M. Yordanoff previously had refused to resign voluntarily, despite the insistent demand of the Agrarian leaders.

Telegraphic Dispatches

Chicago, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—His clothing patched and ragged and his shoes tied with twine, 72-year-old George Kanopars went to a bank today and deposited $7,516. Most of the money was in old-style currency in denominations from $1 to $500. Kanopars earned it all by selling little pies for 5 cents each on Chicago's streets for 50 years.

Paragould, Ark., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Seven weeks ago Mrs. Dora Tucker was bitten by her pet dog and thought little of it, but today she died of rabies. It anapped her on the arm at her farm at Caldwell, Mo., and later ran away from home. A neighbor found the dog ravaging his flock of chickens and killed it, but no suspicion of its infection was aroused and no examination of the animal was made.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Hereafter girls attending high school and junior high school in Little Rock will be permitted to wear silk dresses to classes, but high heels, bare knees, rouge and lipstick remain taboo.

High Point, N. C., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Sylvian Palmer, 21, arrested here today shortly after two other men were captured by police investigating a $6,000 bank robbery at Denton yesterday was identified by A. D. Cox, of Denton, as the driver of the bandit car as it left the bank with the stolen money.

Atlanta, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Atlanta city council has passed an ordinance containing a section empowering the municipal clerk to withhold moving permits from members of one race wishing to move into a community occupied by another race. That part of the ordinance reads that the clerk may withhold the permit if "it appears that the party desiring to move into the neighborhood differs from the race in whose neighborhood he proposes to move, and such moving may cause disorder, fighting, riots, &c."

Denver, Colo., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. W. H. Adams requested the State Department today to inform United States diplomatic agencies in London and Paris to be on the lookout for Walter C. Davis, fugitive head of the City Savings Building and Loan Association, of Colorado Springs.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Former President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, arrived here by train today for a "two months" rest. He was greeted by more than 150 representatives of Mexican families.

Ford Co. Is Silent On Wage Revision

Parent Plant at Dearborn Reopens After 3-Week Shutdown.

Detroit, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Officers of the Ford Motor Co. declined to comment today on reports that a widespread downward readjustment of salaries and wages had been made throughout the company.

The parent plant of the company reopened at Dearborn, near here, yesterday after a three-week shutdown. Several thousand men were recalled and other thousands are to be brought back later.

While official confirmation was lacking, it is generally understood that the men returning yesterday were employed at the same wage scales prevailing when the plant was shut down.

Nearly a year ago the Ford Co. announced a downward revision of the current wage scale, reducing the $7 minimum daily rate to $6. Trade circles have heard that readjustments have been in progress since then, both among wage earners and salaried employes receiving more than the minimum daily rate, but no official announcement has been given out by the company.

Hurley Will Fly Today To Legion's Convention

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley will leave Washington about noon today by private airplane for Tulsa, Okla., on his way to Portland, Oreg., where he will attend the national convention of the American Legion on September 12.

The Secretary of War said he is attending as a member of the Legion, not as a public official, and will not make an address there. On the way back from Portland he said he will make a political address at Huron, S. Dak., and possibly at one or two other places.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"
ATTILA—"THE SCOURGE OF GOD"
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the great painter, Harvey Dunn . . . inspired by the barbaric cruelty of Asia's most dreaded plunderer . . . "the grass could not grow where his horse had passed"... 433-453 A.D.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

MOB PERILS DEPUTY IN PRISONER'S DEATH

Alleged Illinois Slayer Hurried to Another Jail as Clews Indicate Brutality.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Deputy Sheriff C. O. Skinner, of Pekin, Ill., was held in Peoria County Jail tonight for lack of bail on a murder charge growing out of the death last week of a prisoner in the Tazewell County Jail at Pekin.

Skinner was rushed here after his arrest when a mob of about 300 men, shouting threats, gathered in the Tazewell County Jail yard. Most of the men were friends of Martin Virant, East Peoria coal miner, whose death in jail resulted in the murder charge against Skinner.

Coroner A. E. Allen and State's Attorney L. P. Dunkelberg, of Tazewell County, who questioned the deputy last night after his arrest, said Skinner denied having beaten or maltreated Virant.

The murder charge was lodged against Skinner after Dr. W. D. McNally, Chicago pathologist, reported to Coroner Allen that a laboratory examination of tissue and cartilage from Virant's neck and an examination of his body convinced him that the man had not died from hanging. Sheriff J. J. Crosby reported that Virant was found hanging from the roof of his cell.

Virant, held as a witness and suspect in the slaying of Louis Nelan, testified at the opening of the inquest into Nelan's death that he had been beaten by several deputies led by Skinner. Coroner Allen said his testimony was borne out by injuries he had suffered—concussion of the brain, a broken rib and other injuries.

Dr. McNally said he expected to complete a more thorough examination within ten days and returned to his Chicago laboratory.

General Health Rising As Birth Rate Declines

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Depression is raising the general level of health in America, but decreasing the birth rate.

Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, addressing the American Congress of Physical Therapy, said that the economic situation had "given the people the greatest blessing of life—health. Unemployment has taken away excess funds and this has produced a simpler standard of living."

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. issued statistics showing that the birth rate had fallen 5.8 per cent in 1931, due apparently to the economic depression.

Poisoning by Food Suspected in Death

Coroner Orders Examination of Intestinal Tract of Young Man Victim.

An exemination of the intestinal tract of Raymond Clifton Thompson, 25, of 901 Longfellow street northwest, at the order of Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday, indicted that death may have been caused by food poisoning instead of hemorrhage of the brain, as was at first supposed.

Thompson was discovered in great pain early yesterday by his father and he died before a physician could be reached. According to his parents, Thompson said that he had eaten at a food stand on Georgia avenue before retiring.

Specimens of his intestine were sent to the Health Department and will be examined to discover if the food contained poison. If the food is found to have caused his death, both the Health Department and the office of the coroner will conduct further investigations.

General Mine Strike Truce Still Remote

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Despite a reported accord between mine operators and workers in some sectors of the Oklahoma-Arkansas strike area, additinoal arrests, persistent pickets and "precautionary" instructions to National Guard units today kept the prospect of a general truce remote.

There was no violence. Eleven men, accused of unlawful assembling by allegedly surrounding the home of a nonunion miner at Hartshorne, joined more than a score of others already in jail here. Meanwhile, several hundred miners formed a peaceful picket line on a highway near the Samples Mine here.

Postponement of Trade Parley Is Held Unlikely

London, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—It was said in official quarters today that the British government has received no intimation from the United States regarding postponement of the world economic conference which has been expected to begin in London late next month.

Newspaper reports from Washington say the United States desires postponement, but preparations for the conference already are under way with a preparatory committee scheduled to meet at Geneva late in September.

Fees of Wood Firm Receivers Slashed

U. S. Appeals Court Reverses Action of Judge in Shortridge Case.

San Francisco, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today cut in half the fees Federal Judge Harold Louderback had allowed Samuel Shortridge, jr., and his attorney for the time they appeared as receivers for the Lumbermen's Reciprocal Association.

The circuit court some time ago ruled Judge Louderback had no jurisdiction in the case, and it should be handled in the State courts.

Following that verdict Louderback allowed Shortridge, jr., and his attorney $12,000 in fees and $878 for expenses on a trip to Washington, in which they carried an appeal in the previous decision to the United States Supreme Court.

Hitler Continues Attack On Von Papen's Regime

Munich, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler, the Nazi leader, continued his attacks upon the Von Papen government tonight. In the course of a speech he declared he was looking forward joyfully to the fight coming after the "next dissolution of the Reichstag." The Fascist told his hearers he would proceed to reshape the constitution—constitutionally and on a legal basis.

The Nazi scorned offers of a few ministeral seats, asserting he "cared nothing for titles or chancellorships" as long as the leadership was in his hands.

CLAIMS IN MAINE'S ELECTION CAUTIOUS

G. O. P. Leaders Do Not Expect Majority of More Than 15,000.

Portland, Me., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Maine election—opener of the fall season—only five days off, today found opposing party leaders cautious in their claims.

Republicans said they would elect their candidate for governor and three Congressional nominees, who pointed out that "1928 was no criterion." Unofficially they said they did not expect a majojrity of more than 15,000. Some leaders saw possibilities of it dropping to 8,000 or 10,000. In 1928 the vote for governor was Republican 148,000; Democratic, 865,000

Prohibition Issue Raided.

Democratic State Chairman John H. Dooley, of Portland, today said it was "a little early" to estimate the outcome.

Not since 1914 have the Democrats broken through Republican stretch to place a candidate in the governor's chair. Although better organized this year and more aggressive than in more than a decide, the minority party has waged its battle of boaalt with little if any, of the hoped-for financial aid from national head-

The prohibition issue has been raised in all three congressional contests and somewhat more mildly in the gubernatorial race.

The Democratic State platform contains a resubmission plank. The Republican platform reaffirms its faith in national and State prohibition.

Democrats for Repeal.

Louis J. Brann, the Democratic nominee for the governorship, and the three men seeking election as members of Congress on the Democratic ticket—Joseph E. F. Connolly, of Portland; Edward C. Moran, jr., of Rockland, and John G. Utterback, of Bangor—are all for repeal.

Burleigh Martin, Republican gubernatorial nominee, has failed to commit himself, but generally is considered favorable to the party platform, while the three congressional candidates are avowedly dry. They are Representatives Carroll L. Beedy, of Portland, and John E Nelson, of Augusta, running for reelection, and former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Dexter, who defeated Representative Donald F. Snow, of Bangor, for the Republican nomination in the Third District primary.

The prohibition issue alone has been closely joined in the campaign.

Both Brann and Martin have pledged themselves to economy in Government expenditures.

U. S. Olympic Group Received by Hoover

(Associated Press.)

A group of American participants in the recent Olympic games yesterday was received and congratulated by President Hoover.

After he had posed with the group, part of which was made up by the championship Johns Hopkins University lacrosse team, the President turned and said: "I congratulate you in the name of the country on your participation in the games and I wish to congratulate you personally also."

Horse Show Set For Montgomery

Third Annual Event Saturday Expected to Surpass Last Year's.

The third annual horse show of the Montgomery County Horse Show Association will be held Saturday, beginning at 10 a. m. on the farm of T. Alexander Barnsley, Seventh street pike, 1 mile east of Olney. Entries indicate that the show will exceed last year's display, when 121 horses participated, according to Thomas Hyde 4th, president.

The show will be open to Maryland and District horses and will have thirteen classes. These will include: Six, four and two-horse or mule teams; draft breeding class, pony saddle class, children's pony jumping class; local saddle horses owned by Montgomery or oward County residents for 30 days prior to show; suitable to become hunters, hunters breeding class, green hunters, handy hunters and touch and out class; contests between drivers of four and six-horse teams, the drivers being certified to have been employes of the owners for at least the preceding six months. Cash prizes nad ribbons will be awarded as prizes.

Thomas Hyde 4th, is president; Dr. Thomas A. Ladson is vice president, and Dean Acheson is secretary-treasurer.

Hoover Told Movement Of Freight Is Improved

(Associated Press.)

Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific Railroad, said after a conference with President Hoover yesterday he had reported that figures showed a "perceptible improvement" in the economic situation of the Southwest and Pacific Coast.

Shoup said car loadings had increased substantially. He was particularly hopeful because of the increased movement of freight in less than carload lots. A study of less than carload freight, he said, indicated that small merchants and business men were stocking up on commodities of all kinds.

Gore Charges Farmers G.O.P. System Victims

Lincoln, Nebr., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma in an address here today said the American farmer was a victim of the "Republican system of privileges."

The Republicans have operated on a theory "A little could be taken from each of 60,000,000 farmers, widely distributed and unorganized and thus make vast fortunes to be laid at the feet of a privileged few," he said.

THE STRESA CONFERENCE.

Central Europe's economic dilemma is once more being given attention at a conference in Stresa, Italy. This is the second attempt that has been made in recent months to relieve the Danubian countries from the effects of the economic barriers which they have erected on their own borders. European observers are somewhat more hopeful of an agreement than they were last spring, but the outcome is so overclouded by politics that success is doubtful.

The tiny states of central Europe and the Balkan peninsula are in acute distress because of their pressing burdens of debt and the intricate trade restrictions which they have evolved. Trying to ape such vast countries as the United States, they have erected tariff barriers and destroyed their own markets. Even though they are hopelessly dependent upon other nations for economic well-being, they have sought economic self-sufficiency. The result has been, not to strengthen their national economy, as in the case of the United States, but to deprive them of goods needed for consumption and of markets needed to dispose of their produce.

An effort to remedy this situation last spring failed because Germany and Italy refused to accept the Tardieu plan of creating a solid preferential bloc in central Europe. Now France proposes to give preferences to the agricultural products of the Danubian states in the markets of Europe. Austria would also be given preference for industrial goods. Although the principal objections of Italy and Germany seem to have been overcome, new obstacles probably will arise.

Preferential treatment for the grain of central Europe would require the consent of the United States, Argentina and Canada to exempt those agreements from the most favored nation clause of their commercial treaties with western European powers. It remains to be seen whether these countries are willing to make the sacrifice, because their own farmers are hard pressed. Yet the central European nations are heavily in debt to the American people, and there is not much chance of this debt being paid unless some practical rehabilitation measures are worked out.

If the Stresa conference were kept on a basis of economics it might effectively ease conditions in Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Roumania, Yugoslavia, Poland and Greece. But political jealousy and antagonism hanging over from the war clutter the ground which the conference must cover. Germany objects to Poland being included in the group. Italy will permit no agreement that might weaken her influence in the Balkans. France is anxious to bind her eastern allies into a strong economic unit that would look to Paris for guidance. This interplay of political forces may once more prevent agreement on any practical steps The agrarian states have agreed to present a united front, but their cooperation will be of little avail unless the great powers can compose their political differences.

THE YOUNG ELECTRIC AGE.

Last Sunday a gathering containing a number of distinguished men assembled in Pearl street, New York City, to do honor to the memory of Thomas A. Edison, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the first central electric station in the world. So recent was this revolutionizing event that several of those who were intimately connected with Edison in perfecting the incandescent light were present.

This first generating plant, designed to supply 400 lights in the financial district, was built amid much skepticism after $1,000,000 capital had been raised. Today there are over 2,000,000 customers for electric light in New York City alone, and 24,000,000 in the United States. From the modest investment of that first million the electric industry in the United States has grown to require invested capital in excess of $13,000,000,000.

With a life of only two score and ten electricity has become a household, office and factory necessity in every city and hamlet in the land, and a large proportion of the farms are also equipped for the use of many kinds of electrical devices in addition to lighting. The record of the growth of the electrical industry, like that of oil and the automobile, reads like fairy tales, except that Grimm himself could not have imagined such young giants.

The superior advantages of electric light and power soon caused its spread to every corner of the globe, and yet the full scope of the industry is far from having been attained. Every year brings out new uses for the mysterious current. There is nothing that man bends to work his will in so many ways, yet knows so little of what it is, whence it comes and where it goes, once it has served his purpose.

NEW YORK'S MAYORALTY.

The board of elections of New York City has ordered an election for November 8 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mayor Walker.

Small doubt is entertained that Mr. Walker will be Tammany's candidate, although John F. Curry, leader, indicated that a decision might be delayed for a month. Nominations must be made by October 15.

Acting Mayor McKee has already made a deep impression upon New Yorkers by his energetic beginning in cutting expenses, including his own salary, overhauling budget estimates, sidetracking favored contractors, and otherwise putting retrenchments into effect. The city's credit seemed to improve with Mayor Walker's resignation. Bankers are lending money to the municipality at 5½ per cent instead of 5¾, which was previously demanded. The new rate itself is too high for a city possessing the wealth of the metropolis, but the trend is in the right direction.

Mr. Walker's ability to "come back" is of course a matter of dispute. He still enjoys remarkable popularity in certain circles, and yet there seems to be a perceptible dimming of his glory since he doffed the mayor's crown. His campaign would be a demand for "vindication," which usually makes small appeal to voters. Unless the mayoralty campaign should develop into a struggle between Tammany and Gov. Roosevelt, thereby stirring Tammany to do or die for Walker's cause, the possibility of a fusion candidate winning the prize would appear to be good. But Mr. Walker's friends believe that he has a great career before him, and that New York City will restore him by an enormous vote.

HITLER MOVING ON.

Chancellor von Papen stands ready to dissolve the German reichstag next Monday if it should attempt to pass a vote of no confidence or otherwise obstruct his program of economic rehabilitation. An election would follow within three months if the reichstag should be dissolved, and presumably the Hitlerites would gain a majority; but the Hindenburg government even then would hold the whip hand, as it could again dissolve the reichstag and keep Hitler out of power.

Hitler and his party are reaching the frenzied stage as they find themselves blocked. The arming of Nazi forces has increased rapidly. The Brown Shirts are drilling and becoming more militant daily. They have precipitated riots in which hundreds of deaths have occurred. The drastic death decrees have not served to prevent organization of the Nazis for further trouble.

In Berlin the government has dismissed part of the old and efficient constabulary force and replaced it with troops for police duty. The entire loyalty of the army is doubtful. Young officers are known to sympathize with Hitler's program, and it is questionable if they could be depended upon to oppose a Nazi movement to seize power. A revolutionary movement probably would be marked by bloody clashes with the Communists and Jews, and by strikes and attacks upon great industrial plants.

Although much of Hitler's program is repugnant to German public opinion, other features make an appeal that seems to be sweeping him toward control of the state. His demand for abrogation of the Treaty of Versailles, for recovery of the Polish corridor, and for the right of Germany to arm itself is unquestionably the voice of modern Germany. Close students believe that a conflict over the Polish corridor will mark the beginning of another war in Europe. On the Polish question Germany is a unit. No one who travels in Germany doubts that war will come over that issue. The quesiton is whether it will come before Germany is prepared to contend with France, or later, after better preparation. Germans possessing sound judgment insist that their country must be stabilized and prepared before undertaking the risks of a struggle with France, which would begin from the moment the Germans should attempt to recover the Polish corridor.

A NEW HAITIAN TREATY.

A "treaty of friendship" between the United States and Haiti has been signed and will be made public within a few days. It is a direct result of the recommendations made by the Forbes commission, which President Hoover sent to the West Indian republic shortly after he entered the White House. Ratification of this treaty will mark the beginning of a new period in the relations between Haiti and the United States.

In recent years Haiti has been dependent upon this country for financial stability as well as for the preservation of law and order. That country has made considerable progress, however, in the conduct of its own affairs. The last election was orderly. Haiti has remained tranquil in spite of hard times and revolution in many more advanced sections of Latin-America. Apparently it is ready to take over most of the responsibility for maintenance of a stable government.

The treaty signed at Port au Prince recognizes the improved status of the Haitian government and provides for the gradual withdrawal of American aid. Only 700 of the 2,800 marines who were sent to the island when civil authority collapsed are still there. It is understood that these will be withdrawn during the next two years. By that time it is expected that native officers will be qualified to take charge of the Haitian militia, and Haiti will undertake to preserve order without American assistance for the first time in many years.

Under the existing treaty the United States has charge of Haitian customs to insure payment of a loan. Indications are that some supervisory power over Haitian finances will be continued in effect until the loan is repaid and Haiti is able to handle its own fiscal problems.

The objective of the relation between the Washington Government and the little republic has not changed. The United States wishes to see a stable Haitian government, and is relinquishing some of its supervisory functions only because the Haitians appear to have made progress in that direction. A reversion to conditions which brought about occupation of the republic in the Wilson administration would undoubtedly lead to friendly intervention once more.

It is absurd to refer to this policy as imperialism. It is the opposite of imperialism. A strong American republic lends a hand to save a weak neighbor republic from chaos and possible domination by European powers. The United States is striving to make Haiti independent even of the United States.

REMINGTON RAND'S EXAMPLE.

The advertisement of Remington Rand, Inc., in The Post this morning carries a message to every business man in the United States. On August 25 James H. Rand, Jr., president of the company, announced through The Post and other newspapers that his concern would buy $4,500,000 worth of material for 1932. This decision was made for two valid reasons: First, because commodity prices were low and buying would be advantageous; and second, because the Remington Rand Company felt that it should make known its resolve to go forward, as an encouragement to others who were hesitating. The company's action was widely applauded as proof of business courage and foresight.

Now Mr. Rand advises the public that the sales of his company are running 26 per cent ahead of one month ago.

This fact speaks volumes. It is not an opinion or a hope, but an actual increase of business following a resolute act in going out for business and in manifesting confidence in the early upturn of prices.

Commodity prices have been the lowest in 100 years. If this is not a time for industry to lay in stocks there never was such a time. Part of the industrial harvest is made up of shrewd buying; the other part is in shrewd selling. Commodity prices are now going up. Soon the golden opportunity to buy at bedrock will be gone. It is time to lay in necessary raw materials and supplies.

Mr. Rand remarks that if all industry would buy now for four months ahead, $5,000,000,000 worth of goods would be immediately scheduled for production.

At least one great trading concern in the United States is following the Remington Rand example by buying enormous quantities of supplies at present unprecedented low prices. Others will wish they had had the courage and foresight to do the same thing.

Kansas hens no longer blush when they lay eggs, says Senator Capper. After careful investigation he attributes it to the increased price of eggs, but we attribute it to the Republican platform.

If Al Smith had not called Gov. Roosevelt a demagogue last spring it might not be difficult now to write a nice piece about him.

SIGNPOSTS OF RECOVERY

From the Louisville Courier Journal.

When the president of a great railroad, which, like most such carriers, is still in the throes of adverse circumstances, is able to see definite signs of business improvement, it must be taken for granted that such improvement exists in such a form that neither fear, prejudice nor pessimism can obscure it. Consequently, what President L. A. Downs, of the Illinois Central Railroad, said over the radio a few days ago, after a 2,500-mile trip through the Mississippi Valley, should be encouraging to those who have not heard or read his remarks.

"I expected to find an improvement in business," said Mr. Downs, "but what I found exceeded all expectations." Agriculture forms the basis for all prosperity in the Mississippi Valley, therefore the statement that crop prospects are generally good throughout that district is one favorable sign. "Prices of grain, cotton and live stock have advanced," says the railroad man. "Prices of most of the things that farmers have to buy have declined."

Enhanced prices of securities Mr. Downs found to have served as "a tonic to build up confidence in the business outlook." Of course, when such prices stop falling, forced liquidation ceases and losses are halted.

Another "signpost of improvement" noted by Mr. Downs is the fact that "spenders of public money" have been frightened by the uprising of business men and farmers in taxpayers' associations and other organizations, and he remarks a "real start" on the road to economy in all government, even down to townships and local school districts. The topic of the cost of government led the transportation executive to remark upon the importance of the fact that "the credit of our Government has withstood the test of the strenuous times we have been experiencing, that our dollar is intact as a world standard of prices and that we have been able to maintain the gold basis." This itself has had a great effect on the stabilization of business. The very fact that we have passed through the depression without greater calamities and that our form of government has stood the test are reasons for rejoicing, he believes.

In industry and merchandising, Mr. Downs finds that adjustments have been made, great expenses eliminated and improvements installed, so that business generally is in splendid condition to swing into line as the now re-forming trade parade gets under way. A great reservoir of consuming demand awaits tapping, and business is ready to do this job.

It is impossible to deny and foolish to make light of the signs of business recovery which the president of the Illinois Central sees and which are reported in the newspapers daily. Great corporations, with reborn confidence, announce big advertising campaigns or enter into production activity. Railroad shops, steel plants, textile mills and other factories call men back to work. These can not be anything else than what Mr. Downs says they are—"signposts on the way to recovery."

By the time the Satidy Post oracles and the Litry Digest poll are through it will hardly be necessary to hold an election.

In a plain tale from the hills of Vermont, Citizen Coolidge diagrammed the situation without the use of catch phrases, invectives, or nursery rhymes.

One of the amusing things of the campaign is to hear impassioned advocacy of certain relief measures as though they were original conceptions, when in fact they are actually being put into effect right now.

WORLD'S OLDEST TRAIN.

When a passenger train gets to be 85 years old it deserves more than passing mention, says the Railway Age. That is the age of the New York New Haven & Hartford's Fall River Line boat train, said to be the oldest regular scheduled train in the United States and probably in the world.

Recently the train began its eighty-sixth year of daily service between Boston and Fall River, carrying passengers to and from the New York-Fall River steamers.

The first trip of this famous train was made from the old Kneeland street station of the Old Colony Railroad (now part of the New Haven) on May 19, 1847. It left Boston at 5 p. m.. The train still leaves Boston at 5 p. m., Eastern Standard time, although it now starts from South Station. The train has been run on practically the same schedule during the entire 85 years of its existence.

The only other train in the world which can compare in length of service with the boat train is said to be the Flying Scotsman of the London & North Eastern in Great Britain, which made its first trip on August 8, 1850.

There Would Be Cheating in Every Game if Nobody Despised a Cheat

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE three things a man values most are life, liberty and money.

Knowing this to be true, the law deprives him of one or more of these things when he deserves punishment.

But this form of punishment, however beneficial to the criminal and the State, neither benefits nor compensates the victim.

If a man borrows your money or obligates himself to pay money for your goods, the law requires him to pay.

If he steals your money, the law attempts to punish him but makes no effort to obtain justice for you.

If a man in your employ is injured, or if a man is run down and injured by your automobile, the law enables him or his surviving dependents to obtain compensation from you.

But if a man maims or kills you with a lethal weapon, the law obtains vengeance on his person and requires no sacrifice of him to compensate you or your family.

Why is the thief accorded better treatment than the ordinary debtor?

Why is the innocent employer held responsible while the killer is asked to pay nothing?

If the citizens of this country were interested in justice and outraged by crime, the criminal would be required to compensate his victim.

His possessions would be seized and sold to pay for the damage done. If his goods were insufficient to pay his debt, he would be sentenced to hard labor at a fair wage and held in bondage until he earned the last cent due his victim.

But the ordinary citizen is not interested in justice. He gives little thought to the criminal's victim. He regards crime as an adventure. He does not picture the struggle against crime as a contest between the people and the forces of evil but merely as a feud between officers and outlaws. Often he sympathizes with the lawless. Only when aroused by headlines unusually large or a crime unusually brutal does he hate or scorn criminals.

That is the chief cause of crime: the indifferent attitude of law-abiding citizens.

Rattlesnakes once infested America. Now they are rare in civilized regions. They were exterminated because every man's hand was against them. They were hated, loathed and feared.

Equal loathing would make crime rare.

The snakes would flourish still if no one had hated them except their victims.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Strange Candidate.

Detroit News.

A journalistic investigator the other day, interviewing candidates, ran across a distinct phenomenon. He found one who thinks he ought to be sent to Congress but who has no platform.

Never having been a member of Congress, this political oddity said he didn't feel qualified to lay down a program for the United States Government. He had a feeling that being a congressman is a tremendously big job and one a man ought to take very seriously.

"If I am elected," said he, "there is just one thing that I am determined to do: I am going to jerk off my coat and go to work and learn the business. I shall try as hard as I can to find what ought to be done and help to do it."

The Militant Outlook.

Kansas City Star.

A Kansas editor soberly gives his opinion that the Al Smith editorship of the Outlook is not calculated to be successful because Al is wet, and the Outlook's decline dated from the day it ceased to be militantly dry. On the other hand, our opinion, which is just as good (neither of us having been in the magazine business), is that the Outlook stayed dry too long after the country adopted prohibition. A militant magazine, to be successful, should be wet when the country is dry and dry when the country is wet.

Mirth Maker.

Macon Telegraph.

Mr. Woodstock informs us that "There is practically no open sale of intoxicating liquor in the United States," and one more crack like that will rank him along with Will Rogers, the Marx Brothers, Pat Hurley and the other Class A comedians.

Bound to Be Saved.

Lexington Herald.

Just a glance at the early campaign promises shows it will be virtually impossible to prevent the republic from being saved in November.

Moses, the Prophet.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Senator Moses, who has earned somewhat of a reputation as a prognosticator in national elections, is out with his quadrennial prophecy. It is that Mr. Hoover will win after a hard fight, with 22 electoral votes more than a majority. In the past, Moses has underestimated the electoral votes polled by Republican party candidates. He said Mr. Coolidge would receive 312 in 1924, whereas he actually got 382. In 1928, the New Hampshire senator thought Mr. Hoover would receive 410, but he won with 444. The impressiveness of these underestimates makes Moses' latest forecast of interest.

Two Good Reasons.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

Third parties fail, observes a publicist, because nobody will support them with funds. Another reason is because so few support them with votes.

Mystery of Al Smith.

Los Angeles Times.

The standard bearer of 1928 has said that he will vote the Democratic ticket this year, but that is far from being enough to do Roosevelt and Garner any good in the States where Smith sentiment is strong, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. In those States, active Smith support, the making of a campaign, might influence many votes. It is becoming increasingly unlikely that any such campaign will be made.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Glass-Borah Money Not Secured by Gold, Says Banker—That's Why It Circulates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read your editorial of September 3, "A Blow to Banking."

It appears you give no reason as to why the Glass-Borah amendment was added to the Home Loan Bank bill. Everybody knows that there is more money outstanding today than, perhaps, ever before, but it does not seem to circulate! Why? Because it is gold-secured money which the banks hold for reserve, or the hoarder sticks in his sock, and you can't blame either under present conditions.

Now, bond-secured money is not redeemable in gold, and can not be used as reserve. Therefore, when it gets to the bank it is kept moving in the legitimate channels of trade. Neither the banks nor the hoarders want it.

Whatever your opinion is, the people of this country have confidence in this currency. They know it is good. Nobody ever discounted it. The people want something that will circulate. Why don't you explain the difference? A BANKER.

"Practical" Dry Fears Third Ticket With Senator Borah at Head Would Elect Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Being a practical-minded dry, I am disgusted with the self-styled dry leaders who are trying to persuade Senator Borah to head a dry presidential ticket. They seem incapable of realizing that a third party ticket would in all prabability result in victory for Gov. Roosevelt, who favors a policy that if put into effect would wipe out all gains made by the drys during the past 25 years.

If Baseball Prices Come Down Bleachers Will Fill Up.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am glad to see that the baseball bosses are talking about a reduced price of admission for the good of business next year. It is a wonder they did not get that way long ago.

The game of baseball has been so much improved since it became the great national pastime that now only slight changes in the playing rules now and then are thought necessary. The use of a little common sense was all that was necessary in making good as to the game itself.

But baseball as a business has been run hit or miss. The owners have had their minds too much set on making big money as pennant contenders, or at least on a first-division footing. And so they haven't tried to figure it out how to bring in a steady cash return from one day to another down in the cellar division.

With an outlay of millions of dollars for stadiums built to seat 30,000 or more cash customers each, they have fixed the price of admission so high that, if your club is not a pennant contender, the average daily attendance will be a miserable sprinkling. I think ordinary business common sense ought to tell you that it will be profitable to reduce the price of tickets to what the fans feel like paying for ordinary big league ball games, since great crowds of boys and men whose spending money is limited might thus be finally attracted to the ball yard every day of the season. And, remember, in this connection, that these are not mere holiday fans, but comprise the dependable, dyed-in-the-wool mass of fandom. C. F. P.

Democrat Holds That Al Smith Could Not Have Won This Year.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just read the letter of T. P. W. in The Post of September 3. I think T. P. W. overlooks a few things.

A winner was wanted by a majority of Democrats, so it was no use to run Al Smith again. Why did not Al, knowing these things, support Mr. Roosevelt in the first place, or at least some other Democrat? I think this is the practical way to look at it. The success of our party is paramount to the ambitions of any one man. A DEMOCRAT.

FUNDAMENTALS.

We must get back to our bases, the old simple truths of all time;
That only be steadfast endeavor was moral intended to climb;
That life pays no heed to the scoffer, but treads its immutable way,
And the joys which are claimed without labor are lost with the first rainy day.

Security comes with deserving and not from the goddess of chance.
The soldier who'd live through the battle must learn how to handle his lance.
Life's laws will not alter to please us, unchanged to the end they remain.
Who wants the assurance of knowledge, must study in wisdom to gain.

And whether we face it with scorning, or whether we like it or no,
Who seeks to be honored and trusted has only the one road to go.
We may talk about riches and praise them, but no man can call them secure,
For it's only the things of the spirit, such as courage and faith which endure.

We must get back to our bases; to the havens we've known in the past;
To a cheerful submission to duty wherever our fortunes are cast;
To the tasks which are spread out before us and give them the best we possess,
And admit that in character only a man may be sure of success.

Mrs. Hoover Returns From Camp Rapidan.

MRS. HOOVER HAS RETURNED to the White House from the Rapidan camp.

Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, will entertain at dinner this evening at her home in Woodbury, Long Island, in honor of her niece, Miss Emilie Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stevenson, of Glen Cove, Long Island, and will take her guests afterward to the dance at the Piping Rock Club for Miss Caroline Corey. The secretary returned to Washington Tuesday.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. E. C. Hayden announce the birth of a son to their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Gaylord Palmer Coon, at the American Hospital in Paris. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hayden, who are visiting their daughter, will return with them next month when Dr. Coon will resume work with Harvard Medical School.

Mr. Erik Fischer, Attache of the Danish Legation, has returned to his apartment in Meridian Hill Studios from Hot Springs, Va.

Miss Edith C. Eustis Engaged To Lieut. H. W. Chanler.

Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Edith Celestine Eustis, to Lieut. Hubert Winthrop Chanler, U. S. N. Miss Eustis is the daughter of the late Mr. William Corcoran Eustis, who was the son of Mr. George Eustis, of New Orleans, and the grandson of Mr. W. W. Corcoran. Mrs. Eustis was the daughter of former Vice President L. P. Morton.

Miss Eustis has three sisters, two unmarried, Miss Helen and Miss Anne Eustis, and one married one, Mrs. David Finley, wife of the honorary counsellor of the American Embassy at London. Her only brother, Mr. Morton Eustis lives in New York.

Miss Eustis is a graduate of Foxcroft School, Virginia, and made her debut in Washington three years ago. Mr. Chanler is the son of the late Mr. Winthrop Chanler and Mrs. Chanler, of New York and Geneseo. Among his uncles and aunts are Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Mr. William Astor Chanler and Mrs. John Jay Chapman. His sisters are Mrs. Lawrence White and Mrs. Portor Chandler, of New York, and Mrs. Dudley Pickman, jr., of Boston. He has one brother, Mr. Theodore Chanler.

Mrs. Eustis and Miss Eustis are spending part of the autumn and winter at Santa Fe, N. Mex. Lieut. Chanler is attached to the U. S. S. Arkansas, now stationed at Long Beach, Calif. No date has been set for the wedding.

Judge and Mrs. Warren Olney, jr., have arrived in Washington from their home in Berkeley, Calif., and are stopping at the Carlton.

Mr. William E. Huntington has returned from Asheville and is at his apartment on Sixteenth street.

Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert and Mrs. William Bailey Lamar are at the St. Regis Hotel in New York.

Miss Reith Announces Her Wedding Plans.

Miss Margaret Reith, whose marriage to Mr. John J. Fitzgerald will take place Monday evening at the Immaculate Conception Church at 7 o'clock, has chosen for her attendants Miss Anna Reith, her sister, who will be maid of honor; Miss Dorothy Amin, Miss Alma Bell, Mrs. Louise Purcell and Miss Margaret Casey, as bridesmaids. The best man will be Mr. Henry Fitzgerald, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers will be Mr. Gordon Edwards, Mr. Jerome Richards, Mr. James Bell and Mr. William Fitzgerald.

Miss Reith is the president of Zeta Chapter, Chi Sigma National Sorority, and Mr. Fitzgerald is the past national president of Gamma Nu Sigma Fraternity.

After their marriage Mr. Fitzgerald and his bride will leave for an extended motor trip through the New England States, stopping at Mr. Fitzgerald's home in Massachusetts, and continuing all through the Great Lakes section.

The former United States Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher arrived in New York yesterday on the Europa. Mr. Roland Morris, former U. S. Ambassador to Japan, and Mr. Charles D. S. Dewey, former financial adviser to Poland, were also passengers on the boat.

Mrs. Charles Beecher Warren, wife of the former American Ambassador to Mexico, with her son, Robert Warren, is at White Sulphur Springs, from Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, is passing a vacation of several weeks in White Sulphur with his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright, of Washington.

Mr. David Blair, jr., has joined his parents in their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel after spending the summer at camp in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Arthur S. Riggs Made Officer of Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs have returned to their apartment in Stoneleigh Court after a summer spent on the Jersey coast, where they had a cottage at Wanamassa.

A few days ago the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, presented to Mr. Riggs the title and insignia of Officer of the Crown in official recognition of many years of distinguished service to the land of the Caesars. Mr. Riggs has written books, monographs and articles and lectured all over the United States on themes which helped give the American public a truer sense of the beauty and importance of Italian art, letters, history and architecture. One of his books, "Vistas in Sicily," is still in public demand after more than twenty years of success. In October, 1916, Mr. Riggs had an entire issue of the National Geographic Magazine to himself for an elaborate illustrated monograph entitled "Inexhaustible Italy: Gifted Mother of Civilization."

Miss Julia O. Flikke will be hostess to a party of ten at the buffet supper at the Rossdhu Castle Club on Sunday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Fishback are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. MacCambridge entertained at dinner at the Rossdhu Castle Club last evening in compliment to their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Currens, of New York. The party also included Miss Eleanor Roland and Mr. Louis Gundling.

Senor Luis Castro Urena, of the Costa Rican Legation, has returned from Cost Rica, where he has been passing the last month.

Miss Fitz Gerald Married To Howard F. Morin.

The marriage of Miss Mary Anastasia Fitz Gerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Fitz Gerald, to Mr. Howard Francis Morin, of New London, Conn., son of Mr. John B. Morin, of New London, took place yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, the Rev. Joseph R. Moran officiating.

The church had an arrangement of palms and ferns, and the altar was banked with dahlias. As the guests were assembling, Miss Mary Louise Sullivan gave an organ recital and Miss Evelyn Schwartz, of Gaithersburg, Md., close friend of the bride, gave vocal solos before the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory satin, fashioned on Edwardian lines, with puffed sleeves and a cowl neckline. The gown was closely fitted at the waistline and a long train fell from the skirt at the back. Her tulle veil was arranged softly about her face and held with gardenias, and she carried a sheaf of Easter lilies.

Miss Frances Fitz Gerald, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, wearing a gown of eggshell opalescent crepe, with a short bolero jacket of Bordeaux velvet. She wore a turban to match the jacket and carried a bouquet of dahlias and maidenhair fern, tied with eggshell color ribbon.

The other attendants were Mrs. Edward Joseph Zwolak, of Wilmington, Del.; Miss Adele Cavanaugh and Miss Helen Burnett Carroll, of this city. The bridesmaids wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor, with boleros matching their gowns and corded with Bordeaux velvet. Their turbans were like that of the maid of honor and they carried similar bouquets.

Mr. Le Roy Groff, of Reading, Pa., was the best man and the ushers selected included Mr. Thomas J. Fitz Gerald, jr., brother of the bride; Mr. Alfred O'Donnell and Mr. Theodore Himmelberg, of this city.

A reception and breakfast were held at the Mayflower Hotel for the immediate families and wedding party, when Mrs. Fitz Gerald, mother of the bride, wore a gown of brown transparent velvet with a turban to match and a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses.

After the reception and breakfast Mr. Morin and his bride left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a blue sheer crepe gown trimmed with rose crystal buttons, with a hat and other accessories to match. Her wrap was of black wool crepe trimmed with blue fox fur. They will make their home at the Devonshire Courts North. The bride is a graduate of Trinity College, and the bridegroom graduated from Georgetown Law School and is now connected with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fitz Gerald, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fitz Gerald, of Easton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. James Fitz Gerald, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fitz Gerald, of Freeland, Pa.; Mr. John B. Morin and Miss Leone Morin, of New London, Conn.; Mrs. Nicholas Kulney, Miss Helene Kelly and Miss Mary Kelly, of Philadelphia.

The last of a series of summer dances given by the Fairfax Hunt at Sunset Hills will be given Saturday evening, from 10:30 until 2:30 o'clock.

A number of dinner parties will precede the dance. The debutantes from Washington, Virginia and nearby Maryland will add to the charm of the affair. The members of the Fairfax Hunt are the hosts and patrons of these dances.

Maj. and Mrs. Martin C. Shallenberger, of Fort Meade, accompanied by their two children, Sallie and Martin, will leave today for Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Louise DuBose Waller has returned to Washington after spending the summer at Ogontz White Mountain Camp near Sugar Hill, N. H. En route to Washington she made a short visit to Southampton, Long Island. Mrs. Absalom Waller has been spending the week in New York and returned with her daughter.

Conditions in Russia will be the subject of the talk to be given by Dr. Gertrude Brigham this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Alva Belmont House.

The regular meeting of the Washington Chapter of the Daughters of the United States Army will be held at a luncheon on Tuesday, September 13, at 1 o'clock, at the Army and Navy Country Club.

Mrs. Munson Burton, of New York, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Donald MacDonald, sr., at her home on Belmont road. Mrs. Burton's son, Mr. George Seward Burton, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Donald MacDonald 3d, at Rossdhu Castle. Mrs. Burton will remain in Washington for several weeks, but her son will leave later in September to resume his studies at Williams College.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE.

DURING my recent sojourn in Hollywood, I watched the screen stars exercise and I realized what an important part that plays in keeping them trim. Some of the stars practice setting-up exercises every day for 15 minutes or more. They follow a definite routine of bending and twisting and deep breathing. Others get their exercise via outdoor sports and games. All, as I mentioned in a previous article, have some favorite outdoor hobby: skating or swimming, golf, tennis, riding, walking, &c.

What a contrast to watch the screen luminaries who keep active regularly and persistently, and then compare them with the average person. Among your own friends and acquaintances, aren't there several who exercise in spasms? This is particularly true during the summer months. The beaches and resorts are conducive to exercise. And many young men and women have spent all day Saturday and Sunday, the past two months, exercising and straining muscles that are not accustomed to such sudden and strenuous treatment. Then, the rest of the week they either need the time to recuperate, or whether by choice or necessity, remain idle so far as muscular exercise is concerned.

Every Day.

To be truly beneficial, exercise should be taken regularly, daily. If you can't do any more, walk a few miles every day. Get out in the open and walk. Get all the sunshine you can before the colder weather sets in.

Constance Bennett, that star of stars, is impatient with scheduled exercises. She likes games, feeling that the fun is even more important to mind and body than the physical stimulation. She plays tennis every day when not in productions. Spends week-ends in the mountains or at the beach, swimming for benefit and pleasure. Always tries to eat heartily, but exercises just as heartily.

Dorothy Mackaill—I love her, don't you—and do you know that she is just as quick-witted and clever off the screen as on—exercises a good deal, but not routine exercise; that's tiresome, she says. Her contention is that if you get into the habit of keeping in motion, you'll find that the shape of your body will respond accordingly.

On the other hand, Claudette Colbert does 15 minutes of calisthenics every day and spends one hour daily out in the open air.

Tallulah Bankhead hikes for miles every day. Frances Dee takes a long walk before retiring. Nancy Carroll likes deep breathing and bending exercises (bends fifty times at bedtime) and many of the stars regard gardening as a splendid exercise. The stretching and bending is "swell" they say, fine to keep the waistline trim.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Fruit, raw or cooked, is valuable in a child's diet because it supplies vitamins, minerals and roughage. It should be given once a day or oftener. Raw fruit is especially valuable because it supplies vitamin C, which is not supplied by most foods.

One raw fruit should be given daily to all children, especially to children under 2. Citrous fruits—oranges, grapefruit, lemons—and tomatoes (sometimes considered fruit) contain the most vitamin C and should be given often. Commercially canned tomatoes, if not cooked after the can is opened, as well as raw ones, contain plenty of vitamin C, though other cooked or canned fruits as a rule do not. Either pulp or juice of oranges, grapefruit and tomatoes may be given. Lemons may be given in the form of lemonade. Ripe apples, cut small, or very ripe bananas may be given.

Cooked fresh fruit, such as apple sauce and baked apples, may be given to children frequently. Dried or canned fruits, such as apricots, peaches, pears or prunes, may be used for variety two or three times a week, especially in winter. Stewed rhubarb may be given to a child over 2. It must be remembered that as a rule cooked fruit can not take the place of raw fruit.

Besides these fruits, children from 4 to 6 years may have other fruits either raw or cooked: Berries, grapes, plums and well-chopped pineapple. These should be given in small portions.

When fruit is to be served raw, it should be thoroughly washed and skins, cores and seeds removed, except that apples with the skins on may be given to children over 5. For the younger children most fruits should be mashed or scraped; for the older ones they should be cut up.

Fruits to be used for children must be in perfect condition, thoroughly ripe yet not decayed. Bananas are wholesome when the skin is turning brown. Only berries fresh from the garden should be used.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

HERE'S a clever little frock-favoring the smart idea of contrast so popular with the grown-ups this season. It can be made with long or short sleeves, just as you please.

A wrapover, side-closing effect makes it so individual.

Two shades of wool crepe is an excellent scheme for its development. Its inspirator combined tobacco brown with orangy-red.

It's a darling dress in two shades of linen, rayon novelties and tweed-like woolens.

Style No. 3272 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material with 1 yard of 35-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Fall Fashion Magazine is ready. Contains attractive selection of new patterns for women and children, also embroidery, patchwork quilts and a three-lesson beauty course. Price, 10 cents a copy. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

RUSSIA TAKES UP FOOTBALL.

("Soviet Russia is to adopt American football. It will import American coaches to teach Russian youths the game."—News item.)

MOSCOW—The Moscow Beards fought the Volga Boatmen to a tie today in the great Kasalowitch Bowl, built on plans chosen in a Sovet competition. The Moscow Beards really won by a touchdown in the last 30 seconds of play, but Gregory Letimoff, National Football Commissar, ruled it out on the ground that to award either side a decision after such a hard battle would conflict with the Soviet theory of equitable rewards for honest toil.

• • • • •

A feature of the game was a colorful scene between the halves, when 26 Kulaks were executed on charges of not knowing the words of the football signs. (The shootings were carried out over a national network. —Ed.)

• • • • •

The football game was marked by some difficulties in direction owing to the Soviet system of discipline, which forbids harshness or undue vehemence on the part of group leaders. The coach of the Volga Boatmen drew a rebuke from his men when he gave them a pep talk just before the game and bawled, "Now, men, I demand a victory. Go out there and fight to your last breath!"

• • • • •

Pleas to "give your all for dear old Moscow" were likewise howled down by the Moscow Beards, the captain insisting that such appeals to sentiment were an offshoot of the capitalistic system.

• • • • •

During the second period Boris Grobolovitch, right half back for the Moscow Beards, ran the wrong way with the ball and was ordered exiled to Turkestan by the Commissar of Touchdowns.

• • • • •

Boris contended that a blow on the head from the boot of a Volga Boatman had dazed him, but the Commissar ruled that running the wrong way with the ball constituted an offense against the first principles of Sovietism and had been expressly forbidden by Stalin by the decree of June 13.

• • • • •

Immediately following the game the goal posts were torn down as constituting a capitalistic symbol and 3,000 football fans were arrested for wearing raccoon coats without a permit from the Commissar of Wild Life, Igor Petrivikowsky.

• • • • •

Next week the Moscow Beards will play an eleven representing the Five-Year Plan. And the Five-Year Plan is regarded as a sure winner, if the Moscow Beards know what is good for them.

TO A LION IN A ZOO.

Oh, noble beast of jungleland
Indisputably you reign—
Majestic, domineering, grand
In poise, in might and main!
Oh, lion great, your pride and you
Are irked, it's plain to see;
In vain you struggle to subdue—
One pesky little flea!

MAX SPINDLER.

Ima Dodo thinks that the Martin Johnson's picture, "Congorilla," is boost stuff for a soft drink.

THE REAL BATTLE.

In the Rudy Vallee divorce suit the big fight will be over the custody of the megaphone.

One can imagine Mrs. Vallee explaining, "Our tastes differed. You see, I liked music."

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

SIR ARTHUR EDDINGTON, British astronomer, now in this country to speak at the International Astronomical Union's meeting in Cambridge, Mass., will be heard in three scientific addresses over WRC, in his only public appearances during his present stay in this country.

The noted astrophysicist, who will speak upon "The Spiral Nebulae" tonight at 8 o'clock, will also be heard on the succeeding Thursdays at the same hour.

Eddington, who is the author of "The Nature of the Physical Universe" and leading exponent of the theory of the expanding universe, is professor of astronomy at Cambridge University and director of the university's observatory.

These radio talks have been arranged by the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education in cooperation with the National Broadcasting Co.

The annual presentation of awards to D. C. firemen and policemen, including medals conferred by the United States, the French government and the District of Columbia, will be broadcast from the Griffith Stadium on Saturday, September 10, by Station WMAL. The ceremonies will precede the annual policemen-firemen baseball game. The program will be broadcast at 2:15 o'clock.

S. L. "Roxy" Rothafel, a notable cast of actors, and musical features directed by Erno Rapee, will be heard during the broadcast of the novelty program, "Bird of Paradise," over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The program is a special version of the play by Richard Walton Tully.

"BARON MUNCHAUSEN," swashbuckling teller of strange and outlandish tales, has joined the mystic circle of the Magic Carpet. Jack Pearl, Broadway comedian and star of many a musical hit, will play the role of the modern "Baron Munchausen," relating his pursuit of the giant Poopledorf and what he did with that individual after he had caught him.

Ferde Grofe, composer and orchestra director, also will make his initial bow on the Lucky Strike Hour (WRC, 9 o'clock) tonight. Grofe will direct the musical portion of the broadcast.

On Saturday evening, over WMAL and a network of 60 stations, Frederic William Wile will inaugurate his tenth successive year on the air. He is believed to have chalked up a radio record as the speaker who has been before the air audience of the country for the longest uninterrupted period with the same topic, "The Political Situation in Washington Tonight." That was his subject when he first broadcast at the advent of the Coolidge administration in September, 1923, and he has returned to it season after season throughout the nine intervening years.

Wile will be heard, as he was last season, at 6 o'clock Saturday evenings in Washington, until the end of daylight saving time, Sunday, September 25, when his "spot" will be 7 o'clock.

The Modern Male Chorus (WMAL, 7:45 p. m.) has prepared the following program for tonight's broadcast:

"Gypsy Trail" (Galloway); "Old Black Joe" (Foster); "Rolling Down to Rio" (German); "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen" (Burleigh), and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" (O'Hara).

COL. FRANK KNOX, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, will discuss the improvement of economic conditions, especially as affecting the Middle West, over the WJZ network at 9:45 o'clock tonight in the "Signposts of Improvement" series.

The Washington Male Quartet, under the direction of Jesse Heitmuller, using arrangements by Harold Veo, will do a special broadcast over the southeastern group of stations of the National Broadcasting Co. at 6:15 o'clock tonight. Station WRC will not broadcast the quarter-hour because of a previously scheduled feature.

ED WYNN has a friend named J. Weatherstrip Reilly. The Chief says he was born durng the war and they called him Weatherstrip because he kept his father out of the draft.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Something new in the natural waistline and fullness over the hips is achieved in a semiapron effect of sapphire blue velvet which ties over a pink satin slip, opening to show the slip in front. The chiffon sleeves are in pale blue, edged with rhinestones, which are repeated on the apron ties. (A Dah-ray design.)

IF you're a damsel who likes to dress correctly for your favorite sport, you'll be glad to know, I think, that the regulation, English, perfectly tailored sports things are coming into their own again. No more do we have to golf, hike, ride, hunt or any little thing like that in togs that are more suggestive of a stage costumer's dream of what a chorus girl should wear than clothes actually designed just for some particular sport.

The two things that distinguish these honest-to-goodness sports things are the heavy, expensive materials they're made of, and their masculine cut. Perhaps it's the natural effect of a frilly, feminine and fussy trend in fashions to turn miladi's thoughts wistfully to the swagger sports clothes that used to be—and what she thinks of always seems to come to pass, now doesn't it? At any rate all really up-to-the-minute department stores and specialty shops are devoting lots of space and advertising to such things as rough tweed suits, long leather coats, sweaters, and so on, all the very latest word in smartness, and all untrimmed and unfussy, and able to stand the roughest weather without a whimper. Incidentally, among these sports clothes I did see some jaunty raincoats that anyone could wear in town. These were loose and double-breasted, of waterproofed tweed with faint plaids, and have as perky an air under a sunny sky as they have under a teeming downpour.

The high necklines of these practical sports things are masculine, as are the large and numerous pockets. That is, they were masculine until lovely ladies adopted them for their own pleasure!

• • • •

Three-color combinations are chic—velvet is smart and flattering, and the fullness from the normal waistline instead of from the hips is most unusual!

Therefore a Dah-ray designed evening frock particularly adapted to the young girl—or the woman with a young girl figure, shows sapphire blue velvet in an odd apron skirt effect, tied over a pink satin slip. And, the slip shows in the front when the wearer walks. And the skirt flows from this belt line. Then the top of the gown is in pale blue—and chiffon, and edged in rhinestones, which weighs it down. Ah, shades of Corrinne! Like it?

If you have only one new fall dress in your whole wardrobe, let that one be a coat dress—and by ALL means let it be the Dare Design for which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope this week. Because this coat dress design is figured out for you in every three color combination possible. Also it is a frock that has four possible front effects, any one of which makes a complete costume in itself. The design is completely drawn, and either yourself or any good dressmaker at all can make it up from the leaflet. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of the Washington Post for it, if you would like an exclusive design for your new fall frock!

Au revoir.

HIGHER VULNERABLE NOTRUMP REQUIREMENTS.

AMONG the other improvements for the year 1933 which the Culbertson System will advocate is the raising of the requirements for an Opening one notrump bid, when vulnerable.

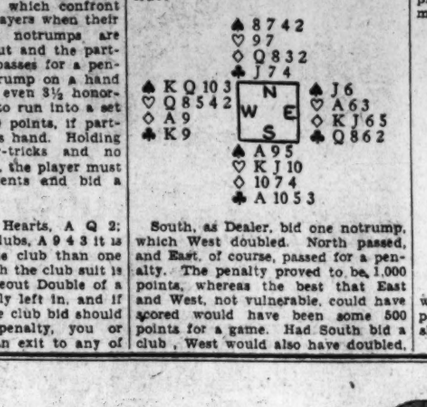
To open, vulnerable, with one notrump, a player must have no biddable suit and a minimum of 4 honor-tricks. This has been decided upon to avoid the pitfalls which confront even the very best players when their Opening vulnerable notrumps are doubled for a Takeout and the partner of the Doubler passes for a penalty. Bidding a notrump on a hand containing 2½, 3, or even 3½ honor-tricks is very liable to run into a set of from 600 to 1,400 points, if partner holds a worthless hand. Holding less than 4 honor-tricks and no strictly biddable suit, the player must shade the requirements and bid a suit.

Thus, holding—

Spades, Q 10 2; Hearts, A Q 2; Diamonds, K 10 3; Clubs, A 9 4 3 it is far better to bid one club than one notrump, even though the club suit is quite shaky. A Takeout Double of a suit bid is very rarely left in, and if a Double of your one club bid should be passed for a penalty, you or your partner have an exit to any of the other suits without increasing the contract. An example of a perfectly sound and good vulnerable notrump will be seen in the following hand:

Spades, A Q 6; Hearts, K Q 5; Diamonds, Q J 9 4; Clubs, A J 3. This hand, although not an absolutely minimum vulnerable notrump, is not by any means a maximum vulnerable one notrump bid.

The following hand was recently played at a New York City Bridge club:



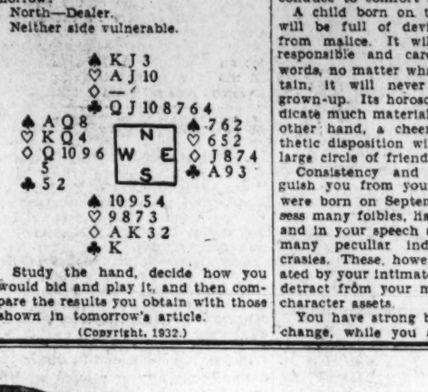
South, as Dealer, bid one notrump, which West doubled. North passed, and East, of course, passed for a penalty. The penalty proved to be 1,000 points, whereas the best that East and West, not vulnerable, could have scored would have been some 500 points for a game. Had South bid a club, West would also have doubled, but it is highly doubtful if East could have passed this bid for a penalty, and even if he had done so, the penalty would have been at most 600 points and conceivably less. When South's vulnerable notrump was left in, South could have made an S O S Redouble, but even this could not have saved him from the impending disaster, as now they would have been forced to play the hand at two of which ever suit North chose with which to rescue.

The moral is: "Make your vulnerable notrumps 'rock-crushers,' sufficiently strong that any bank would lend you money on them."

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

IF SEPTEMBER 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 p. m. to noon, from 4:00 p. m. to 6:20 p. m., and from 9:05 p. m. to 10:40 p. m. The danger hours are from 12:20 p. m. to 2:10 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

The planetary aspects of September 8 promise a day replete with activity and accomplishment. Stimulating influences will be much in evidence, and lethargy will be replaced by industry. In the world of business, good ground work can be made that will conduce to comfort and economy.

A child born on this September 8 will be full of deviltment, but free from malice. It will be largely irresponsible and carefree; in other words, no matter what age it may attain, it will never become a real grown-up. Its horoscope does not indicate much material success. On the other hand, a cheerful and sympathetic disposition will create for it a large circle of friends.

Consistency and courage distinguish you from your fellows, if you were born on September 8. You possess many foibles, have many hobbies and in your speech and action reveal many peculiar individual idiosyncrasies. These, however, are all tolerated by your intimates, as they do not detract from your many outstanding character assets.

You have strong beliefs, and never change, while you always champion them. Although your words and ideas are often acrimonious, you are respected for your innate fairness and humanity. You may have to wait longer than those who are less resolute for reward, but you will win out in the long run and in the meantime carry on good humor, fortitude and patience.

Your prejudices are strong and you are articulate in the expression of them. You shrug your shoulders at criticism and push on your way, even though the path be strewn with obstacles. You never go around, but go over them.

There is a strong strain of old-fashioned Puritanism in your make-up, and you do your utmost to live up to the teachings of your youth. You have much faith, and never entertain in your mind either doubt or unbelief. Keenly alive to your obligations, you will make a correct husband or wife, although unemotional.

Successful people born on September 8:

Russell Sage, capitalist.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

IS INFANTILE PARALYSIS COMING?

SURGEON GENERAL CUMMING is quoted as having said there will be no epidemic of infantile paralysis in 1932. This prophecy was based on the fact that there was a considerable epidemic in 1931, and epidemics in succeeding years have never been recorded. The epidemic of 1931 prevailed in New York City and Brooklyn, from which focus it traveled upstate, principally up the Hudson, along the sound in Connecticut and other New England States, making incursions from the sound into the interior, and up the valleys, such as that of the Connecticut, and finally, along the shores of the Great Lakes and as far away as Minnesota.

Experience has taught that during an epidemic nearly the entire population of all ages is made immune, if not previously so. The number made immune by attacks of the disease, both typical and atypical in character, is small as compared with the number immunized in some way without being sick at all. This mass immunity appears to last more than one year in all instances, and for many years in most.

Some of the above data is certainly established fact, and much of it is so nearly established that it is generally accepted as fact. Those of us who live either in or near the regions where there was a considerable prevalence of infantile paralysis in 1931 can accept Surgeon General Cumming's prediction and feel secure. Not so with those who live in parts of the country remote from the region indicated, and this is a large country and there are many millions of people. Of those, a great many thousand were not even remotely in contact with the people of the epidemic areas of 1931. Kugalmass says there was an epidemic in France in 1930, and that did not protect the Brooklyn population in 1931.

Those who live remote from the 1931 epidemic area will do well to be on their guard against the disease this year. The great epidemic of 1916 began with a moderate sprinkling of cases in May. The lesser epidemic of 1931 began with a small group of forewarning cases in June. Any community that is doomed to have an epidemic of any proportions in September and October of this year has already had its warning.

Unfortunately, we are seldom alert enough to see these warnings, or, if we see them, we are not intelligent enough, or have not sufficient courage, or enough sense of responsibility to act on them. Where is there a community which is warned by one case of infantile paralysis developing in June, July or August, that realizes the importance of the warning and takes measures for protection then and there? One recognized case always means several unrecognized cases in the same community at the same time.

Why are Deaths Increasing?
Each year sees number of automobile fatalities multiplying.
58,552 killed in 5 years ended in 1921.
98,551 killed in 5 years ended in 1926.
152,732 killed in 5 years ended in 1931.
WHY?
Caution
Today, for your safety, put your best tires in front. Time was when, for traction, your best tires went logically on your rear wheels. It's the blow-out in front that does the damage when you are really "traveling"—damage that's too often fatal.

The Greatest Gamble in the World —and human lives the stake

IN THE HARD DRIVE for more tire business "price" is on parade . . . $5.93, $4.93, $3.93 . . . second lines, third lines and even fourth lines boldly bid for the tire buyer's dollar.

Tires on today's bargain counters are unsafe at over 25 miles an hour. Yet these "built to a price" tires are expected to go up to 60 and better. Unlike most merchandise, tires directly affect human safety. When quality is taken out to meet lower prices, danger takes its place.

Shall we close our eyes to this vicious practice—or shall we face the facts?

The General Tire & Rubber Company sees no reason to lower quality. These are times to increase quality . . times to give the tire buyer the advantage of the lowest cost of raw materials in history.

In the face of a great barrage of bargain-price appeals and unwarranted claims for inferior tires, General adheres rigidly to absolute Top Quality.

General has proved that thinking motorists place a higher value on their lives than the small difference in price between Generals and ordinary tires.

17.6% Increase in Sales Shows Growing Demand for Top Quality

General is running full time. Sales for the first 6 months are 17.6% ahead of last year. Is there any other tire manufacturer with a record that even approaches this? We think not.

For a negligible difference in price you get the exclusive advantages of General's patented no-breaker-strip construction. That means full plies from bead to bead—blowout-proof—skid-safe protection, luxurious low-pressure comfort plus the economy of General's famous big mileage.

M'KEE CONTINUING FIGHT FOR ECONOMY

New York Board of Elections Orders Special Vote for Mayoralty Nov. 8.

prevent their turning him down for the nomination." McKee is a resident of the Bronx, the borough in which Flynn is leader, and he is not a Tammany member, like Walker.

After reducing his own salary from $40,000 to $25,000 a year, and ordering the salaries of appointed commissioners slashed from $15,000 to $12,000, Mayor McKee said he had made "only a start."

"We are starting on the big fellows first," he said, "and we are going to carry it right down through the whole list." He indicated, however, there would be no salary cuts for those earning less than $2,000 a year.

Mayor McKee also took two other steps toward strengthening the city's financial position.

Gets $17,000,000 Loan.

With Comptroller Berry, he made a trip to Wall street and in less than 30 minutes arranged a loan of $17,000,000 at the lowest rate of interest paid by the city since last November, 3¼ per cent.

Then he turned his attention to the fleet of expensive automobiles used by city officials. He ordered a luxurious car which Walker had used placed in storage, and asked that other employment be found for the two chauffeurs assigned to the mayor's office. "I have an automobile and a chauffeur of my own," he explained. Then he told how he uses his own car to reach a subway station and rides underground to city hall.

"The subway is faster," he added.

Then he called for the records of city-owned automobiles and said it was likely the big fleet would be considerably reduced.

Turning to the reception of distinguished visitors, for which there is a separate city bureau, Mayor McKee said:

"Visiting celebrities will be received here at city hall in the manner due them. There will be as few dinners and as little tinsel as possible."

Dispute on Filing Date.

The action of the board of elections was unanimous. After the meeting S. Howard Cohen, the president, said the next move lies with the political parties. They must file the names of their candidates during the week of October 4, he explained.

Curry, in indicating the Democratic organization would delay its choice as long as possible, said it was his understanding they had until October 15 to make the nomination.

There have been widespread predictions the question of whether an election is to be held this fall will be the subject of a court fight. Some political factions interpret the State constitution and city charter to read that under the circumstances McKee should hold office until December 31, 1933.

Any taxpayer can bring a suit to restrain the board of elections from the expenditure of city money to put the names of mayoralty candidates on the ballots.

Tammany Favors Election.

Curry said the head of the Tammany law committee and another prominent Tammany attorney had advised him a special election is legal.

He declined to comment on McKee's actions since taking office as mayor, and said he had not heard of any movement to request the resignation of Farley as Democratic State chairman.

Anton L. Trunk, president of the New York Real Estate Board, wrote to the new mayor that "not only the taxpayer but the average citizen * * * can not help but feel gratitude for the splendid start you have made in administering the affairs of the city."

Before starting home by subway, McKee was asked about the possibility he will be a candidate for mayor at the fall election.

"I am not interested in politics at all at the present moment," he replied.

Post as Superintendent Of Military Park Open

A $3,600-a-year position as superintendent of the Gettysburg National Military Park is open for application, the Civil Service Commission announced yesterday. Application must be made before September 27.

Applicants must have at least five years of responsible supervisory experience, showing familiarity with civil engineering on construction and maintenance, and with problems of forestry and landscaping, the commission stated. Graduation from an accredited college or university, or the equivalent in forestry training, is required.

Labor Day Importance Is Stressed by Hull

The importance of Labor Day was the subject of an address by Harry E. Hull, United States commissioner of immigration, delivered before the Washington Rotary Club at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel yesterday.

"Labor Day typifies the American interest in the native and foreign laboring groups, which form a large percentage of the population of our country," the speaker said.

Clarendon Girl Festival Queen

Is Selected by Arlington County for Manassas Event Sept. 30.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Sept. 7.—Miss Anne Elizabeth Davies, daughter of Mrs. William Willis Davies, of Clarendon, has been chosen by residents of Arlington County as Regina 2d, queen of the Piedmont (Va.) dairy festival, which will be held here on September 30. The honor of selecting the queen comes by rotation of the eleven counties affiliataed in the Piedmont, Va., festival, and this year Arlington County was in first line of succession.

Her Royal Highness has selected as her maids of honor Miss Catherine Gosnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gosnell, of Arlington County, and Miss Virginia D. Bushong, daughter of Mrs. Franklin D. Bushong, of Arlington.

The rest of the immediate court will be made up of princesses, one to be chosen by each of the participating counties; this group will join in all of the special fetes given in honor of the queen and will also figure in the picturesque coronation exercises which precede the spectacular pageant and colorful parade.

Purse Is Awarded To Mrs. Forsyth

War Department Employe Retires After 42 Years of Service.

Mrs. Helen C. Forsyth, of Alexandria, Va., was yesterday presented with a purse of gold by the employes of the Adjutant General's Office of the War Department on her retirement after 42 years of service.

Mrs. Forsyth was chief of the Procurement Section in the Reserve Division of the Adjutant General's Office and had charge of the appointment of all officers in the Reserve Corps of the Army.

She entered the Government service on September 1, 1890, as a clerk in the War Records Office. Her retirement was effective August 1.

4 Building Inspectors Are to Be Furloughed

On account of the decrease in building activities in Washington four District building inspectors will be furloughed October 1, it was announced yesterday.

Building operations for the past fiscal year were 33 per cent under those for the previous twelve months. The decrease is apparently gaining, according to Building Inspector John W. Oehmann.

Racing Pigeons Found in Church.

Two young homing pigeons are being cared for by Thomas Brown, colored sexton, at Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets northwest, who found the pigeons roosting on the grates of the church furnace yesterday morning. They are believed to have fallen down the 70-foot chimney of the church. They bear the following number bands: 1839MCCA32 and COOIf32W-BB.

SUTTER AND WOOD OUST BRITISH STARS IN SINGLES

Roger Peacock Takes 7-Stroke Lead for District Golf Title

ON THE SIDELINES
by BRIAN BELL

A GOOD voice is as essential for a first-class quarter back as legs, arms or eyes. Howard Jones thinks a quarter back who can not speak with a voice of authority is hopelessly handicapped.

"I like a quarter back who gives his signals in a voice that suggests there is no other possible play and any other signal would be absurd," says the Southern California coach.

"A quarter back's voice is a very important part of his playing equipment. It should be so firm that no one hearing the signal will doubt it is the proper one."

There have been a number of great quarter backs with the equipment regarded as essential by Jones. "Bo" McMillin, All-America quarter, when he did sensational things for Centre, had such a voice, speaking at all times with the utmost assurance. Another was T. A. D. Jones, who was a great quarter back for Yale. Charlie Daly, of Harvard, and the Army was such a signal caller. There have been many others.

"A great quarter back is a great sight," said Jones, "but sometimes great quarter backs are made by great teams, maybe more often than not. The smartest quarter back in the game may call all the smart plays in the book, but he will get nowhere unless he has some players on his side who can execute the plays."

And speaking of quarter backs, Southern California has nine, almost a full eleven of quarters. Orv Mohler, of course, heads the list, but there are eight others good enough to spell him if he needs it, and he will.

Griffith, Mathews, Wotkyns, Warburton, Reboin, Owens and Maloney are the others.

Three of the four backs on the Trojan freshman team last year were quarter backs.

Christian Keener ("Red") Cagle, former great Army back, now playing a half for the New York Giants, should make some dazzling runs for the professional footballers this autumn.

With no thought of reflection on the interfering backs who have cleaned up for the red head in the past, it seems safe to predict that the addition of Ernie Pinckert to the Giants' back field will prove a great boon for the other ball carriers.

Few better blocking backs have played football in the United States. Pinckert is a natural at running interference and is so rugged that he should be able to stay in there knocking down the opposition just as long as he is needed.

Pinckert played most of the time in Southern California's games his last two years. Sometimes Jones sent in substitutes in squads, but only occasionally was the hard-hitting Pinckert relieved. He has been trained in a rough, tough school and professional football should be right down his alley.

One of the best of the new rules, looking to greater safety in football, is that providing a player may be removed from the game and sent back in a subsequent quarter.

Now if a player seems in good condition to continue, but the coach is not certain, he may be examined and sent back later if he is fit.

However, substituting may be done only when time is out, so some teams probably will have to pay a 5-yard penalty to make a substitution late in the game.

Pirates Split With Robins And Gain Game on Cubs

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates, starting their final bid for the National League pennant, broke even with the Brooklyn Dodgers today to shave a full game off the lead of the Chicago Cubs, who lost two games to the Braves.

After extending their winning streak to eleven straight with an 8-to-3 victory in the curtain-raiser, the Pirates fell before the southpaw slants of Fred Heimach in the second game, losing 4 to 2. The even break left the Pirates trailing the Cubs by five games with the Dodgers another four games back.

Indian Spring Youth's 145 Tops Field

Shorey Second With 152, Pitt Third With 154.

Peacock Takes Lead With Round of 72 and Adds a 73.

By DAVE HERMAN.

A FIGHTING heart, plus shot-making ability, sent 21-year-old Roger Peacock, steady golf expert from Indian Spring, into the lead by a commanding margin of seven strokes as the halfway mark of the 72-hole District championship tournament was reached yesterday at Chevy Chase.

Turning in the most consistent rounds of the day, Peacock, captain of Duke University's golf team, had figures of 72—73—145, with Johnny Shorey, youngster from Manor, trailing him, 77—75—152.

Harry Pitt, phlegmatic Manor star, defending the laurels he won last year at Burning Tree, rallied for a 74 in the afternoon, after skidding away with an 80 in the morning, to finish two strokes behind Shorey.

Peacock Gains Early Lead.

Over a wind-swept course that victimized some of the District's finest players, Peacock set a conquering pace. He went to lunch with a five-stroke advantage over Shorey, Martin F. McCarthy, of Beaver Dam, and Franklin Parks, bespectacled golfer from Congressional. Three above par in the morning, Roger ran into trouble on two holes, the sixth, where he played his approach over the green into a trap, and the twelfth, which he three-putted. Stymied by a tree on the seventeenth, he missed a 5-foot putt for a birdie by inches. Roger was even par on the first nine.

Peacock threw away several shots on the first three holes of the afternoon by three-putting the greens. Perhaps the only bad hole of the second journey was the 375-yard fourteenth. Here the youngster's hair dropped down in his face and obscured his sight just as he swung through for an approach to the green. His ball stuck in a ditch and he was forced to take a penalty stroke. Out in 38, Roger sprinted home in 35, missing numerous tries for birdies.

Shorey had a dandy 36 for the first nine in the morning, but two sixes and a couple of fives, due to over-shooting the greens with his irons, dented his card. He had a six on the eighth in the afternoon, but played brilliantly on the stretch for a 36. Johnny would bang his shots dead to the pin and then miss his putts.

Pitt Obviously Off His Game.

The debonair of the links, Harry Pitt, was obviously off his game, recording five sixes. It was a case of wild tee shots and inaccurate putting. He was out in 36 in the afternoon after sinking a 20-footer for a birdie two on the fourth, missed his putt on the eleventh for a five, got a five on the twelfth and another on the fourteenth. His second shot on the fifteenth struck the flagpole and bounced away a few feet. Harry stepped up and canned his putt for a birdie three. On the seventeenth, which is guarded by a trap, Harry dubbed his second trying to play a low shot, flubbed his third into a trap and took a six.

Freddie Hitz, of Chevy Chase, had 158; Martin F. McCarthy and Maurice Nee, Manor star, finished with 159; Franklin Park blew up in the afternoon after garnering a 77 for 160. Young Billy Dettweiler, playing over a course he blistered around in 72, shot rounds of 85—82—167. A field of 40 competed.

The tournament will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock.

The cards of the first three scores and today's pairings follow:

Yesterday was an eventful day for D. Page Cornwell, young Columbia golfer, even though he shot a 166 in the District tournament at Chevy Chase.

Playing in a threesome with Maurice Nee, junior champion, and A. S. Gardiner, jr., also of Columbia, Cornwell registered a hole-in-one on the thirteenth hole of his morning round. Using his brassie he smacked out a sizzling tee shot that struck the green a few feet away from the cup and rolled in. The hole measures 195 yards from the back tees.

MACKMEN BEATEN.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Stroudsburg Poconos defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in a ten-inning exhibition game here today, 8 to 7. Eddie Murphy, former Athletic star, is manager of the Poconos.

Aga Khan Horses Run 1, 2, 4 and 5 in St. Leger

Doncaster, England, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The classic St Leger stakes, last of the five big racing fixtures of the English turf, turned out to be almost a personal triumph for the Aga Khan today. His Firdaussi won and his other three entries finished second, fourth and fifth.

The big brown colt, by Pharos out of Brownhylda, just nosed out his stablemate Dastur to win. Only Mrs. G. Rich's Silvermere was able to break through the phalanx of orange and black silks to take third place ahead of Udaipur, one of the favorites, and Tajkasra.

The St. Leger was first run in 1776 and carried a purse today of about $60,000. It is run over the circular course at Doncaster at a mile 6 furlongs 132 yards.

Silva and Erana Reach Filipino Net Finals

Felix Silva, Washington's leading Filipino tennis player, along with Mariano Erana, a close rival, reached the finals of the Filipino doubles tournament yesterday by trouncing Art Tomelden and Joe Orozco, 6—1, 6—3. They will meet Rullado and Eugenia in the finals.

Today at 5 o'clock the first round of the mixed doubles will be played at Henry Park, with Bobsy Totten and Tomelden meeting Peggy Keyser and Erana and Mary Ricca and Silva playing Ella Vallalon and Yap.

Joe Orozco will play G. Diaz at 5:30 o'clock in the semifinals of the consolations.

Greentree Four Winner In Polo Upset, 11 to 10

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—In a game which required an overtime period to decide, John Hay (Jock) Whitney's Greentree four today defeated the favored Eastcott team, 11 to 10, in the last semifinal of the open polo championship, and will meet Templeton for the title Saturday.

Conceded on'ya fighting chance to upset Eastcott, Greentree came back after a shaky start to dominate completely the play through the middle periods and poke throug hthe winning goal after only 30 seconds of overtime.

The play was marred by a near-serious accident to Cecil Smith, whose pony fell at the end of the sixth period and just barely missed hitting him as it turned a somersault and then rolled over twice.

Nats Open 2d Place Drive In West

Weaver to Seek 20th Victory Against Browns Today.

Dave Harris' Transfer to Minors Defended by Johnson.

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—Washington's Nationals, now in third place but only three games behind the runner-up Athletics, open their final Western invasion here tomorrow afternoon. Manager Walter Johnson led his athletes into town in time for dinner tonight and made no secret of the fact that he is counting on his charges copping all three of the games listed here.

The Browns started the season against the Nats by taking seven of the first eight games played between the two teams, but have copped but two of the last eleven, indicating that their jinx has been broken.

Monte Weaver, who has been seeking his twentieth victory of the season for some time, hopes to gain it tomorrow. Manager Johnson, while optimistic that his charges will overhaul the Athletics and take second-place money, is doing no worrying over the possibility of the Indians, only two and a half games back, beating out his team for third place.

Schedule Augurs Ill for Tribe.

"In addition to being a better team than the Indians," the Nat leader explained, "we have all the better of it on this trip West. Practically all of the power in the league is packed in three of the four Eastern teams—the Yankees, Mackmen and Washington. This means that the Clevelanders will meet three mighty tough foes during the next two weeks, while they themselves, as I see things, will be the only combination which might give us trouble."

And there seems to be considerable logic in this reasoning provided there is no big dope upset, which everyone knows is quite possible in baseball.

"What's this wail among the players over Outfielder Dave Harris being sent to Chattanooga?" the Nat leader was asked. "Many of your men are somewhat peeved as they think it is handicapping them in their fight for second place."

May Mean Pennant For Chattanooga.

Johnson's answer to this, with a shrug of the shoulders, was: "I was sorry to see Dave leave us at this time, as, in addition to being a mighty handy man to have around for pinch-hitting purposes, his absence makes us quite short-handed in outfield material, but we'll get along somehow. I can see President Griffith's view of things. Dave may mean a Southern Association pennant for our Chattanooga farm and you know we weren't using him regularly. He will rejoin us early next week, possibly in Chicago, and I guess we can worry along without him until then."

Wood Selects Course For World Record Try

Detroit, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The course on which Gar Wood, holder of the Harmsworth Trophy, will attempt to better Kaye Don's world straightaway water speed record of 119.81 miles an hour was laid out today on the St. Clair River at Algonac, Mich.

There still remain numerous details, however, including a survey of the course by Federal engineers, but Wood said he expected to make the run within ten days.

He will drive his Miss America X, the hydroplane with which he turned back Don's second Harmsworth challenge in Miss England III last week-end. It was with Miss England III that Don set the present world record in Scotland a few months ago.

Girl Net Stars Enter U. S. Title Semifinals

One upset featured the quarter-final round as Gracy Wheeler, Santa Monica, Calif.; Bonnie Miller, Los Angeles; Helen Fulton, Chicago, and Katharine Winthrop, Boston, survived the day's play for the title won last year by Ruby Bishop, Pasadena, Calif., star.

The only match that went contrary to the seedings, gave Miss Fulton, seeded fifth, a 6—4, 6—3 victory over 15-year-old Millicent Hirsch, of New York, ranked fourth.

Cubs Lose 2 As Pirates Cut Lead

Margin Cut to Five Games as Bucks Divide at Brooklyn.

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The leading Cubs today made an inauspicious start on their last Eastern trip of the season by dropping a double-header to the Braves, 11 to 4, and 2 to 0. The double defeat lessened Chicago's lead over Pittsburgh which split two games with Brooklyn.

Pat Malone was the victim of a barrage of hits in the first game after he had held the tribe to one hit in six innings durig a pitchers' battle with Fred Frankhouse.

He started his own downfall in the seventh, however, when he failed to touch first base when taking a throw from Manager Charlie Grimm. The incident seemed to upset big Pat as the Braves immediately found their batting eye and aided by Chicago errors, proceeded to make nine runs before the side was retired.

Jordan Prominent At Bat.

Baxter Jordan, recruit tribal first sacker, had a prominent part in the rally, driving out a double with the bases full. The next four men also hit safely, and Malone was sent to the showers. Burleigh Grimes took up the pitching burden and later was relieved by Jackie May. The Cubs made eleven hits in the opener against nine for the Braves.

The second game was a pitchers' battle most of the way between Ben Cantwell and Guy Bush. Jordan touched the Chicago righthander for a home run after two were out in the first inning and then the scoring ceased until the last of the eighth when the Braves put over their second run.

Urbanski's clean single, Jordan's bunt and scratch singles by Randy Moore and Wally Berger accounted for the final tally.

The Cubs' fielding was sloppy in the opener, while the Braves fielded sensationally in both games, turning in three fast double-plays in each contest. The teams will play another double-header tomorrow.

Perry and Austin Beaten In National Tennis Upsets; Vines and Cochet Advance

Van Ryn Defeated by French Ace; Shields Among Survivors.

Stoeffen Winner Over Mangin; Lott Beats Japan Champion.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—England's tennis forces were routed from the national tennis championships today, leaving seven American stalwarts to fight it out with France's one-man team, Henri Cochet, for the crown held by Ellsworth Vines, jr.

The wholesale elimination of the British contingent saw the great H. W. (Bunny) Austin bow to Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, this Nation's intercollegiate champion, and Frederick Perry lose a bitterly fought decision to Sidney Wood, jr., the former Davis cupper. Edward Avory and John Olliff went out before Wilmer Allison and Frank Shields, respectively.

Wood's victory over Perry, scored against tremendous odds after he had dropped the first two sets, was the day's thriller. The scores were 3

INDIAN RUNNER SETS TRACK RECORD AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Woods' Horse Wins by Six Lengths

Prince Hotspur Second in 7-Furlong Feature Race.

Winner, Always Out Front, Covers Distance in 1:22 4-5.

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Indian Runner, a son of Dis Donc—Indian Maiden, owned by D. A. Woods, raced to a new track record for 7 furlongs today in winning the Oak Park Purse at Lincoln Fields.

Wayne Wright got Indian Runner away in front and he gained ground at every stride, finishing in 1:22 4-5, and six lengths ahead of Prince Hotspur. The former record was 1:23 by Eskimo. Marmion landed third two lengths back of Prince Hotspur.

Indian Runner was the public choice and paid $3.82 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.44 to show.

Bradley Horse Again Wins At Belmont.

Belmont Park Race Track, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—For the third time since its initial running in 1905, the Matron, a stake for 2-year-old fillies was captured by a representative of E. R. Bradley when Barn Swallow scored by a neck over the Wheatley Stable's Iseult, while two lengths behind came the Belair Stud's Happy Gal, coupled with the second horse, to annex third money.

During the running the Fitz entry of Iseult and Happy Gal both met with interference and there was a lengthy delay while the stewards considered the facts. Barn Swallow appeared to bother Iseult in the final furlong, while Happy Gal had the worst of considerable swerving after breaking slowly. However, the official red board finally was raised.

Barn Swallow ran the 6 furlongs in 1:11 flat to collect $19,850 for Owner Bradley. The Daughter of Black Servant paid 9 to 2. The Fitz entry ruled favorite at 3 to 2.

Barn Swallow took command shortly after a good start, closely attended by Speed Boat, Crazy Jane and Sunny Queen. Crazy Jane's swerving did that filly and Happy Gal not the least bit of good in the running.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: * LINCOLN FIELDS, CHICAGO, SEPT. 7.

The worm wriggled a bit today. I gave you four winners and, of the 20 horses I named 14 were in the money. Pharahead and Bag Smasher, both given for place, got home in front at big odds. Still, I contend the game here is tough and the gang, as well as the boobs, are all desperate.

Buckets, the chief of Toutdom, after drawing a blank for three successive days, finally got a Loop judge to agree to wager fifty berries on Panchio today. The judge, being unable to go to the track, sent his messenger to a nearby bookie. When he returned with the message that the horse was scratched, the judge replied: "I don't care if he is sscratched. I was told he could win if he only had three legs, so go on back and bet on him even if he is cut all to pieces."

Buckets located the only man in Chicago who didn't know all about horses and still lost, so you can see how hard the game is from all angles. However, no one was ever ruled off for trying, so here goes.

Yours, BILL.

FIRST RACE—MONK'S DUDE beat this same bunch in a gallop last Monday. I fancy SWINHAVEN and REPRESENTATIVE for what's left. My private opinion is that you should have your head bored for "hollow horn" if you are caught playing this race.

SECOND RACE—NUSAKEN will be out there setting the pace and, if his bum ankles do not become too hot, may last. REPROOF and GREEN WAVE have outside chances. Same could be said for half a dozen others.

THIRD RACE—DROMBO should repeat. His last race was a good one. MEROVICH and OZITA both have early speed and may get in the picture.

FOURTH RACE — VISHNU and HOOPS tie up tomorrow. It is a two-horse race, and I like them in the order named, with HOT SHOT for show money.

FIFTH RACE—GETTIN EVEN was out for an airing the other day. If let out, can win this heat. LIMBUS is very good at present, while HABANERO should peep.

SIXTH RACE—If PREFER goes again tomorrow, must stick to him to repeat. FLYING will be no worse than second, with PLUCKY GIRL third.

SEVENTH RACE—Just as tough as they make 'em. SETH'S BALLOT across the board would seem a good wager. If the going becomes heavy, is worth a real bet. BEN BLAIR and CHUM for the remainder.

EIGHTH RACE—I hope that you have yours before you get to the nightcap. It would be hard to get together a cheaper band. ZONE, SANTERNO and SUBTLETY are as good as any—which is saying very little.

Stocks Reach Highest Level Of Year in 3.2-Point Rise

Steel Common Comes Near to Record Price; Sales, 4,142,202 Shares.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Stocks clambered to a new average high for the year today, making their bid against the uninspiring example set by leading commodities.

Transactions during the final 50 minutes approximated 1,200,000 shares, or almost as large a turnover as was recorded in the slow advance of the two morning hours. Volume for the day totaled 4,142,202 shares.

Net gains of 1 to 3 points or more embraced a wide assortment of stocks. Especially favored were the utilities, motors, metals and steels, although buying overflowed freely into other categories. Rails, recently a source of some concern because of their comparative apathy, chugged along with the crowd.

U. S. Steel common came within an ace of setting a new high for 1932, again touching 52½. It closed there, up 2½. The preferred gained a couple of points. General Motors and Chrysler both set a fast clip in the automobile division, the former gaining 2 points. General Electric, American Can, Gillette, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union, du Pont, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse were up 2 to 3 net; American Telephone 3¾ and Augurn Auto 10½. International Telephone, Radio and United Aircraft were strong and active.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite closed at 73.9, the highest since early December, and 3.2 points net higher.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Wed.	Tues.
Number of advances	495	299
Number of declines	154	366
Stocks unchanged	118	143
Total issues traded	767	808

Stocks.

New average highs for 1932 were reached in defiance of sluggishness in commodity markets. The gain was 3.2 points. Sales totaled 4,142,202 shares.

Bonds.

Enthusiasm lagged in quieter trading. The average gain was half a point. Interest in rails waned. The day's turnover was $11,316,000.

Curb.

Market firmed and the upward trend was resumed. Gains were fractional in a 600,000-share sale. Utilities dominated the advance.

Wheat.

Big receipts of wheat in Winnipeg and Canadian marketing contributed to depressing values. Other grains declined.

Cotton.

Commitments were evened up on [illegible] of the United States crop report, due today. December closed at 9.07. The general market was up 6 points. Liverpool hedged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—A quieter session prevailed on the stock exchange today. Investment stocks, mining shares and Argentine rails were the best sections. Speculative issues and Rayon shares reacted on profit-taking and the overnight irregular Wall street market. The closing was irregular.

Paris—The heaviness of the New York market yesterday completely changed the tenor on the bourse. Most values declined, but rentes were among the best. Rio Tintos and Royal Dutch were lower, while other petroleum shares and rubber issues yielded a few points. The close was steadier.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse developed a nervous tendency, due to political uncertainty and weaker Wall street reports.

CURB FACES UPWARD WITH SMALL GAINS

Utilities Lead New Advance in Sales Volume of 600,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—After early irregularity, the curb market firmed today and stocks resumed the advance on a fairly broad front. Gains were confined mostly to fractions, with some stocks advancing 2 or more points.

Transactions reached approximately 600,000 shares, about 20,000 less than yesterday.

The public utility stocks appeared to dominate in shaping the market's trend, following announcement of the weekly figures on electric power production. Another increase, which brought the 1932 level to within 10.4 per cent of last year against 12.3 the week before, was better than expected.

Electric Bond & Share which in early trading had reacted regained its loss and moved to 45¼ for a gain of 3⅝ ponts. The preferred shares, however, continued somewhat heavy.

Among the specialties, advances of a point or more were made by Deere, Cord, Ford of Canada "A" and Newmont, which responded favorably to the advance of copper prices to 6¼ cents a pound.

West Canada's Wheat Crop Put at 426,813,000 Bushels

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Western Canada's wheat fields will produce 426,813,000 bushels this year, according to the annual estimate of grain crops compiled by the Winnipeg Free Press. Saskatchewan's expected yield is 217,602,000 bushels, Alberta's 168,120,500, and Manitoba's 41,090,500.

New York City Obtains Lower Rate on Loans

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A limited offering of $17,000,000 City of New York 5 1-4 per cent corporate stock, which has been sold to two New York banks, was made privately today. The stock was priced to yield 4.50 per cent.

The loan on a 5 1-4 per cent interest basis was the lowest rate obtained this year by the city. Last spring New York borrowed on a 6 per cent basis. Bankers attributed the better terms to the influence of economy measures already put into effect by New York's new mayor, Joseph V. McKee.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for September 3 were $6,440,158.41; expenditures $12,269,689.38; balance $332,246,058.13. Customs receipts for three days of September were $3,378,138.28.

Pacific Alaska Airways Buys International Line

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Purchase of the assets and business of Pacific International Airways, Inc., by Pacific Alaska Airways, Inc., subsidiary of Pan-American Airways Corporation, was announced today.

The deal will give Alaska a unified system of airways under Pan-American control. The new lines will be merged with the 2,500 miles of airways recently acquired from Alaskan Airways, Inc., a subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware. Headquarters for the Alaskan lines have been established at Fairbanks.

Copper Continues Advance.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Another advance of 1-4 cent in the domestic price of copper today to 6 1-4 cents a pound lifted the quotation to the highest level since early this year. The markup was to bring the price nearer in line with the foreign market.

BONDS MOVE HIGHER IN QUIETER TRADING

Half-Point Added in Sale of $11,316,000; Federal Section Active.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Enthusiasm lagged in the bond market today with little attention apparently being paid to the upturn in stocks.

While a number of utilities and industrials moved up moderately, the speculative rails displayed an uncertain tendency with indications that further profit-taking was influencing the low-priced carriers. Sales totaled $11,316,000, par value, and the average for 60 corporate securities gained one-tenth of a point.

The United States Government section was active for the first time in a number of sessions, responding to reports that the Treasury's new $1,150,000,000 note and certificate offering for September 15 had been heavily oversubscribed. Treasury 4¼s made a new high for the year and Liberty first 4¼s also recorded a new 1932 top figure, but dropped back later.

Late rally enabled a number of the rails to turn losses into small gains; among these latter were Allegheny 5s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, St. Paul 5s and New York Central 5s and 6s.

Moderate gains were recorded by loans of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Postal Telegraph, International Telephone, American Water Works, National Steel, Otis Steel, Portland General Electric, Texas Corporation and Warner Bros. The largest industrial turnover was in Remington Rand 5½s, which gained 4½ points.

The foreign section was generally firm. While the German government obligations sagged, Rhine Westphalian, Deutsche Bank, Berlin City, German General Electric and other Reich loans improved. The Argentines again advanced as much as 3⅞ points. Haiti Republic 6s were also up 4 and the Japanese list rallied moderately.

Vienna Stocks Advance.

Vienna, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gains on the stock exchange today ranged from 1 to 5 points in a lively session. Since Friday some issues have gained as much as 25 points, reflecting optimism in Wall street.

U. S. Motor Car Output Drops to 89,855 Units

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today estimated August motor car production in the United States and Canada at 89,855 units against 118,611 in July and 191,741 in August, 1931.

Output of passenger and commercial vehicles for the first eight months of 1932 was 1,119,558 compared with 2,053,478 in the same period of 1931.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON CANADA RECEIPTS

Farm Board's New Credit Is Feature; Corn and Oats Decline.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Big receipts at Winnipeg and much enlarged Canadian country marketings put a burden on wheat values today. Domestic arrivals of wheat also showed an increase both Northwest and Southwest. Widespread notice was taken of assertions that as a result of $50,000,000 new credit from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the United States Farm Board, the liquidation of Government financed commodity holdings had merely been postponed, not accomplished.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to ¾ under yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ¼ off; oats, ⅛ to ⅝ down, and provisions at 5 to 10 cents decline.

Reports of ideal weather for wheat movement in Canada led to persistent selling by houses with Winnipeg connections. This selling developed after an early upturn associated with unofficial estimates that 1932 wheat production in the Canadian prairie provinces totaled 427,000,000 bushels compared with recent advices suggesting 437,000,000 to 450,000,000. Winnipeg wheat receipts today aggregated 1,961 cars against 846 a week ago and 1,100 at this time last year.

It was contended in some quarters that if United States Government financed holdings of wheat futures were in December contracts, the line estimated at 40,000,000 bushels constituted a menace to the market, as the holders would have to accept delivery or switch into May. Bears also urged that unless export demand improved, this country was going to carry over another burdensome surplus. North American export business today was estimated at 500,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat, but corn rallied owing to better shipping demand.

Provisions reflected downturns of cereals.

COTTON GAINS LIGHT ON EVE OF REPORT

December Closes at 9.07 on Covering; Market Is Up 6 Points.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A further evening-up of commitments in preparation for tomorrow's Government crop report was reflected by a moderate volume of business and irregular fluctuations in cotton today.

Advances encountered some Southern selling as well as liquidation, but after selling off from 9.11 to 8.93 for December during the middle of the day, the market steadied on covering and that delivery closed at 9.07. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 6 points higher.

Following the publication of the weekly weather report March sold up to 9.28, with the general list working about 7 to 10 points above yesterday's finals. Buyers were supplied on the advance by prebureau liquidation combined with further Southern selling and prices eased off during the early afternoon. March sold down to 9.12, with the general list showing net declines of 7 to 11 points, but offerings tapered off at these figures and the market rallied later on continued trade buying and covering influenced by the firmness of the stock market.

Near months were relatively steady on trade buying, while the Southern selling and commission house realizing or liquidation seemed to be chiefly in the later positions.

Liverpool reported liquidation and hedging in that market, but the decline there did not fully meet yesterday's local decline. Exports today 13,850 making 611,209 so far this season.

Canadian Dollar Climbs.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Recent strength of the Canadian dollar is attracting the attention of foreign currency dealers. In the past few weeks the dollar has been climbing steadily. Today it was quoted at 90.62½ cents, almost a cent above its closing figure last Saturday. Its low for the year was 83.75 cents, recorded January 2.

CAPITAL BANK SEES AUTUMN TRADE GAIN

Business Stage Is Set for Advance, Lincoln National "Outline" Asserts,

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Lincoln National Bank in its September Outline of Business anticipates a substantial improvement in industrial activity with the turn from summer to fall. It is the hope of this publication that beginning with manufacturing, the betterment will increase employment and raise purchasing power to an extent that will be enjoyed by general trade.

The economic stage setting, the review comments, is now well arranged for an advance not only in the United States but also abroad and this period of the year is favorable for the expectation. The last half of September and the month of October will reveal the change, if it transpires. Business, accordingly, is preparing to to scrutinize carefully forthcoming reports of activity in the basic lines of manufacturing during the next 60 days.

Past President Frank M. Totten, American Institute of Banking, comes here today from New York to be the principal speaker at the annual fall dinner of Washington Chapter of the institute this evening at the Raleigh Hotel.

G. Bowie Chipman, resident partner of Harriman & Co., is back from a vacation at Castine, Me.

William J. Flather, vice president of Riggs National Bank, has returned from his annual vacation at Poland Spring House, Me.

Steel Ingot Yield Tops 14 Per Cent

Rise in Cleveland Area Aids Advance; Orders Increase.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Iron Age today reported a gain in steel ingot production this week to 14½ per cent of rated capacity from 13 per cent last week, due to a sharp rise in operations in the Cleveland district. "Further gains this month," it said, "are largely dependent on the volume of incoming business for immediate requirements, as steel mills have virtually no backlog tonnage on their books."

A large number of miscellaneous steel orders, mostly covering small orders for nearby shipment, has been received, even though there has been little support for the industry from the railroads and automobile manufacturers. Some improvement in pig iron buying, notably at Cleveland, has occurred.

Pig iron production declined last month to 530,576 gross tons, a drop of 7.3 per cent from July. There was a net loss of four blast furnaces in August, bringing the number in blast on September 1 to 42, or just one-fifth the total operating three years ago.

Bar Silver Is Higher.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Bar silver rose ¾ cent to 28⅞ cents an ounce in the New York market today. Trading in futures was very active at higher quotations.

47 GRIDMEN REPORT AT V. M. I.

Four New Backs Likely; Line Reserve Talent Short.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 7.—Forty-one candidates for the 1932 V. M. I. Varsity reported to Coach Bill Raftery on Monday, and the squad swelled to 47 on the second day of practice under a sweltering sun. Capt. Ed Kostalnsek headed a list of eight monogram men of last year, the smallest group of veterans the Cadet mentors have depended on in years.

The failure of Louis Siegel, backfield speedster, to return to the Institute removed another letterman from the Flying Squadron backfield. Billy Smith, quarter back, and Stumpy Travers, half back, are now the only lettermen available to lug the ball, and it is all the more apparent that the Cadets will be represented by a brand-new quartet behind the line. Sophomores like Meredith Urick, Tom Riley, George Morgan, John Penn, Paul Reynolds and Temple Ryland will be given every chance to crash the starting line-up.

Line Reserve Strength Lacking.

Line Coach Ed Hess, though shy experienced reserves, has a half dozen husky forwards who won letters last year. Capt. Ed Kostalnsek, center; Charlie Straub, Landon Hilliard and Bill Kaylor, tackles, and Fred Urick and Jack Walker, ends, will form the foundation of a sturdy wall whose chinks will more than likely be filled in by members of last year's Freshmen team. John Burgess, Jack Zimmerman, Chauncey Gilbert, Carlyle Lowe and Charlie Hancock are some of the sophomores who will vie with last year's reserves for varsity jobs.

Comparatively light work is occupying the Cadets this week on account of the intense heat, but the squadron will move at full speed ahead next week, with Commander Richardson's King College gridders in the offing for the early opener on September 17.

Georgia Eleven Has Power But Lacks in Experience

Sophomores, Reserves Hold Fate of Bulldogs; Team Heavier Than Last Season; Line Chief Concern of Coach Mehre.

(This is another of a series of stories on football prospects of major college teams.)

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—There'll be power as well as the customary deception in Georgia's football offense this season, but Coach Harry Mehre doubts his team will be experienced enough to go far.

In man power the varsity will be heavier than Georgia elevens of 1930 and 1931. In seasoning it will be markedly inferior to those crack outfits.

Mehre placed the team's success squarely up to the sophomores and reserves who must fill the holes left gaping through the loss of 20 regulars.

The team of 1931, mostly composed of seniors, which won from New York University and Yale and lost only to Tulane and Southern California, largely passed out in June through graduation and with it went a complete starting back field, four guards, two tackles and two ends, one an all-America.

Downes, Dickens, Roberts and Chandle, the back field aces; Vernon Smith, one of the country's best flankmen, and the famous pair of redhaired guards, Leathers and Mattox, are among those missing.

The backfield outlook isn't so dark, but prospects are that five of the seven first-string linemen will be playing their first varsity game when Georgia opens against Virginia Polytechnic October 1.

The husky 185-pound Wendell Sullivan is back at quarter and he'll do most of the kicking and passing. Buster Mott, another 185-pounder and fast, appears a sure half back selection, along with Joe Crouch, a reserve, and Homer Key, the midget speedster. A 195-pound sophomore, Buck Chapman, will play full back.

Graham Batchelor, the big center, has been moved to end with another regular, McWhorter, remaining at the pivot post. But the remainder of the line from tackle to tackle must come from untried performers.

"We'll have more actual power and maybe we'll be able to say 'Here we come' to the opposition, and really plow through rather than gain our yardage through trickery," Coach Mehre says, "but basically we'll use the same stuff as last year."

The schedule, lighter than a year ago, follows:

October 1—Virginia Polytechnic, at Athens.
October 8—Tulane, at New Orleans.
October 15—North Carolina, at Athens.
October 29—Florida, at Athens.
November 5—N. Y. U., at New York.
November 11—Clemson, at Clemson.
November 19—Auburn, at Columbus, Ga.
November 26—Georgia Tech, in Atlanta.

Football Meeting Friday by Fraters

Dreifus Offered Coaching Berth; Fire Gridders Out Friday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 7.—Alexandria Fraters, champions of the D. C. Capital City football loop last season, will again place a grid team on the field. Doc Dreifus, coach of the champions, will probably assume his old post. Dreifus was offered the job by Manager Ralph Scrivener and will decide this week whether or not he will be available.

On Friday night, the Fraters will hold an important meeting at the home of Scrivener, 1012 Prince street, at which time plans for the coming campaign will be discussed. All candidates for the club are invited to attend.

Scrivener announced today that he has secured Baggett's Stadium for the fall grid season. He also stated that the first practice for the campaign would be held Sunday morning, September 11, at Baggett's beginning at 11 o'clock.

On Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Engine Company, No. 5, football team will hold an important drill at Haydon's Field.

In the workout held yesterday more than 25 candidates reported to Coach Herbert Bryant. Prospects for a good team are bright.

Middies in First Drill, Aided by Cool Weather

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 7.—A decided tang of early fall temperature greeted the Navy football players as they cantered about in togs today, marking the official opening of practice sessions at the Naval Academy. Unlike recent years when hot weather forced the gridders to don light raiment, all hands were in full football raiment when they reported to Head Coach Edgar E. (Rip) Miller and the staff of assistant coaches.

James R. (Sunny Jim) Reedy, captain and guard of the eleven, who hails from Cleveland, was among the early arrivals, as was also Bob Harbold, Washington youngster, who weighs 210 pounds, and who looms as the strongest candidate for the center position, made vacant by the graduation of Magruder Tuttle in June. Harbold was Tuttle's chief understudy last season and saw action in all or part of many of the games.

Head Coach Miller lost no time in putting his charges to handling the ball, tackling the dummy, and other limbering up preliminaries.

Two Daily Grid Drills For Virginia's Squad

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The first touch of fall weather caused Coach Dawson to change his plans today and hold morning and afternoon workouts for the University of Virginia squad.

After a two-hour morning session devoted to dummy tackling, the players finished their day's work with a two-hour afternoon practice devoted to calisthenics and signal drills.

New men who reported today were Pinder, Richmond, half back; Dial, South Carolina, guard; Higgins, a freshman lineman last year, and Tom Johnson, of Norfolk, who was at once assigned a place on the first eleven.

The first team was composed of Capt. Reiss, center; Coles and Dudley, guards; Poss and Berger, tackles; Wager and Condon, ends; Edgar and Sackett, alternating at quarter back, and Sippley, Harris, Pinder and Johnson working the other backfield posts. Ward Brewer, another backfield candidate, reached college tonight and will join the squad tomorrow morning.

Martinez and Walker Bow to British Stars

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—The Washington, D. C., women's doubles team of Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker proved to be but minor obstacles in the path of Mrs. Elsie Goldsack Pittman and Joan Ridley, of England, here today in the quarter final of the Middle States tournament.

The English women, holders of the Wimbledon doubles title in 1931, won, 6—0, 6—2. The match was marked by Mrs. Pittman's hard overhead smashes and the forehand driving of Miss Ridley.

CHAMBERS IS INJURED AT G. W. CAMP

Captain Hurts Ankle; Baker, Newcomer, in Star Role.

Special to The Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 7.—Cool winds brought added snap to George Washington's football behemoths here today, inciting them to their most strenuous workout of the training season, but the name of Capt. Wayne Chambers, end, was added to the list of injured.

Chambers, rated one of the surest pass receivers seen on a local college team in the last decade, received a badly twisted ankle in the midst of a 30-minute session of spirited scrimmaging, in which the first two varsity teams pitted their offensive drive against the almost equally burly freshmen. He will be relegated to the sidelines for several days.

This morning was given over to a two-hour dummy scrimmage, along with the first drill in kicking and passing. Otts Kriemelmeyer, former Tech all-high player and one of the three Washington boys on the squad, returned to old time form with his booting. The surprise of this kicking and passing workout, however, was John Baker, a Anson, Tex., boy who weighs 176 and is 6 feet tall. His passing was surprisingly strong and accurate. Today's performance stamped this sophomore as potentially an important cog in the Colonial backfield.

Two sophomore ends, tussling for the place left open by Fred Mulvey, who is ill in Washington, showed up well today. They were Ozzie Wray, 6-foot 170-pounder, and Bill Parrish, 6-foot 190-pounder. Mulvey will have to show great form to overcome the reputations Parrish and Wray are establishing daily.

Coach Jim Pixlee "scooped" the camp today by arising at 4 o'clock and luring 150 fish from the Rhodes River. They will be served tomorrow in the camp mess hall.

Rockney Captures Culpeper Fair Race

Culpeper, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Lady May gave the cash customers a laugh today in the final event of the Culpeper fair when she rode Jockeyless around the track after throwing her rider to the ground.

After tossing the jockey to the ground in his two attempts to ride her, Lady May began her mad dash around the field while the other entries were held at the post for an even start.

On Lady May's third time around, the starters allowed the other horses to go. But Lady May had already run her race and finished last.

S. D. Chamblin's bay gelding, Rockney, showed his mettle by winning two races, the first of one-half mile against a field of five, and the second of five-eighths mile against a field of three.

The three-quarter-mile race was won by W. T. Ralston's Reigh Celene, and Gray Fox, Clyde Johnson's entry, won the mule steeplechase.

Charest Is Winner In Veteran Tennis

Enters Quarterfinals by Beating Lake in Title Tourney.

Special to The Washington Post.

Forest Hills, Long Island, Sept. 7.—Turning back perhaps the steadiest player in the tournament, Clarence Charest, brilliant District of Columbia veteran tennis player, today trimmed Harvey Lake, Union City, N. J., in straight sets, 7—5, 10—8, to enter the quarterfinal round of the national veterans championship.

Charest, who is one ramed, won the title in 1929.

Unleashing a series of terrific forehand drives, sharply angled backhands and a service that often completely baffled the sturdy New Jersey millionaire, Charest won from Lake today only by producing his best game at the precise moments. Lake had several chances to win both sets, but wilted before the speed and aggressiveness fo the Washingtonian.

Railway Ends 14 More Offices.

Montreal, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Retirement of eleven officers of the Canadian National Railways and abolition of fourteen offices was announced by the company today. This brings the total of offices abolished in intecstra of economy to 50.

Coast Trade Boom Continues.

San Francisco, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The San Francisco Board of Trade reported after an extended survey it has found "a distinct improvement in wholesale trade of the San Francisco-Oakland district began about six weeks ago and is being maintained in September."

MARYLAND U. ELEVEN TO BE LIGHT

Backs to Average 165 Pounds With Linemen About 175.

PREDICTING a gloomy year in football for Maryland University—including even an expected loss to the school's perennial "cousin," Washington College—Coach Curley Byrd yesterday pronounced his squad the lightest Old Line team he has coached in his 21 years with the institution.

Byrd, looking over the raft of green material working zealously for positions on the team, said that the backfield would average about 165 pounds and the line would not be more than 10 pounds heavier a man.

Buscher Out With Twisted Leg.

Scrimmaging continued at a merry clip and tolled off several injuries, the more notable being the twisted leg of Bucky Buscher, a 1931 end, who is being schooled in ball carrying this year, and Ben McCullough, former Eastern High athlete, who has a bad foot.

Byrd was tolerably pleased by the showing of three local boys on the squad, Al Farrell, 212-pound lineman; Tommy Webb, center, a former Western High center, and Dick Nelson, former Tech all-high quarter back. Nelson has added 10 yards to his 50-yard punts that marked his high school career.

On the first squad yesterday Byrd had Vincent and Bender, ends; Farrell and McDonald, guards, and Keenan and McCaw, tackles. In the backfield of the first combination were Nelson, Kiernan, Woods and Poppelman. Earl Widmyer, one of the Nation's "fastest humans," worked out in the backfield of the second team and showed unexpected shiftiness.

Lough Lost to W. & L. For Football Season

Lexington, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The first casualty of the football training season at Washington and Lee occurred today. Harry Lough, star sophomore back, went out of action for the entire season when he suffered a recurrence of a chronic knee injury.

The players were sent through a heavy workout for the first time, short periods of blocking and tackling being injected in the drill during the afternoon.

Curley Blames Hoover For Ills; Sese Defeat

Fargo, N. Dak., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—James M. Curley, mayor of oBston, campaigning for Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, Democratic Presidential nominee, today said President Hoover's administration was responsible for the current economic ills and widespread unemployment. He said the economic situation would result in Mr. Hoover's defeat in November.

"In every section visited I have found the people almost of one mind in favor of the return of Mr. Hoover to private life," said Curley.

Asbestos can be burned, as can almost anything, but the temperature of the fire must be extremely high. The best grades of asbestos will resist a heat of 950 degrees Fahrenheit; other resisting heats range up from 350 degrees. Very few things, among them the rare inactive gases, are absolutely fireproof.

VIRGINIA SUFFERING IN DROUGHT ON RISE

Crops in Seaboard States Imperiled; Statistics Cited by Expert.

(Associated Press.)

A drought, not so bad as the one in 1930, but very damaging, is taking an unmeasured toll of crops in Virginia and other States between New York and North Carolina.

Joseph B. Kinger, agricultural meteorology chief of the Weather Bureau, yesterday pronounced the situation grave. Great damage already has been done, he said, and more is promised unless heavy rains come.

Tobacco, pastures, corn and fruit crops already have suffered greatly in the dry spell that has continued since June. Now the fall truck crops of the Eastern Shore and Norfolk sections are withering under the sun's rays and winter wheat seedings in the Shenandoah Valley and southwest Virginia are being withheld from dust too dry to nurture plant life.

The drought is local, Kinger said, to the region between central New York and northern North Carolina and extends as far west as Ohio. Virginia and Pennsylvania are the hardest hit States.

Comparative Figures.

Rainfall in Virginia was from 60 to 66 per cent of normal for June, 19 to 35 per cent for July and 30 to 45 per cent for August.

A comparison of percentages of normal precipitation for the summer months of 1930 and the same period this year shows, however, that the earlier drought was worse on Virginia.

At Richmond the 1930 summer percentage was 92, this year it was 49. For the three other principal weather observation stations in the State the percentages were: Lynchburg, 33 and 43; Wytheville, 46 and 55, and Norfolk, 59 and 47, the tidewater section being the exception to the rule. Washington, like Norfolk, was drier this summer than in 1930 with percentages of 54 and 52, but Baltimore was 34 per cent of normal in 1930 and this year 72 per cent, a rather dampish spot compared with the surrounding territory.

Crops Are Stunted.

If this fall is average, drenching rains will not come until November, but Kinger said the average can not be used to forecast what is going to happen in any given year. Rain may pour tonight over the affected area, or it may not come for months as in 1930 when the drought extended over three seasons.

Besides being less severe as shown by percentages of rainfall, Kinger said the 1932 dry spell has been much less destructive than that of 1930 because it did not start in the spring. The plants at least got a start and although stunted, as in the case of tobacco, there will be some crops to harvest.

Tracing blue and red lines across a chart, Kinger pointed out a gradual increase in the temperature of this section of the Atlantic coastal region since 1919 and a decrease in rainfall for the last several years. If this keeps up, the normal temperatures and rainfall will be changed, but Kinger said that will take a long time. The normals are figured on a 50-year basis.

Redistricting Act Faces Court Test

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Virginia redistricting act of 1932 appeared tonight to be headed for a test in the courts.

Charles C. Berkeley, of Newport News, candidate for attorney general in 1929 on the coalition ticket of anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans, said he would seek a court ruling on the action of Peter Saunders, secretary of the Commonwealth, rejecting notices of candidacy for members of congress at large filed at his office today by Bergeley and Dr. William Moseley Brown, of Virginia Beach. Dr. Brown was the coalition candidate for governor in 1929.

Mr. Saunders rejected the notices on the ground that "there is no election to be held in Virginia for a member of congress at large" in November. Prior to rejecting the notices he asked an opinion from the office of the attorney general and was advised that the State was redistricted this year, and that there were no provisions for members of congress at large.

Ship Safe, Despite Loss of Propeller

American Boat Helpless in Heavy Seas 350 Miles Off Coast.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—A direct report from the propellerless Munson Liner feighter Munroyal, drifting 350 miles off Titusville, Fla., in heavy seas, said that the ship, although helpless, was not in danger, Munson Line officials announced tonight.

All shipping along the Florida Coast has been warned to keep a lookout for the Hunroyal. Visibility is reported extremely poor with heavy rains making it impossible to see at times.

The freighter lost its propeller last night battling heavy seas. The ship carries a crew of 37 men.

Officials Invited to Luncheon.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.). Ranking officials of the United States and Haitian governments, officials of the Colombian Line and men prominent in the shipping industry will be among the invited guests who will witness the launching of the new Colombian Line steamship Hayti from the yards of the Newport News Shipyard and Drydock Co. here September 17.

TOBACCO CONTINUES MOVING IN CAROLINA

Higher Prices Prevail While Growers See Return of Prosperity.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Higher tobacco prices, pointing the way "around the corner" to prosperity for North Carolina growers, held their own today on the second day of seasonal sales on nineteen new bright belt markets in the eastern section of the State.

Sales, however, dropped off in volume after Tuesday's heavy opening offerings. Growers were waiting to see what standards of price the markets will reach before putting up their better grades of golden weed.

Today's prices brought more good news to depression-ridden farmers, the averages still ranging two or three times in excess of prices paid on the opening days of the 1931 bear market.

The Wilson and Greenville markets which dispute the honor of being the largest bright leaf tobacco mart in the world, paid average prices today of $11.00 and $9.34 per hundred pounds, respectively, for light offerings. Sales at Greenville were 110,930 pounds. Wilson breaks were estimated at 350,000 pounds.

Prices continued their upward trend at Wilson, with common grades selling extremely well, and with better grades showing a slight increase. Today's quality was inferior to that of yesterday. All tobacco companies represented by buyers there were reported anxious to purchase heavy quantities.

Sales at Kinston today were approxmately 200,000 pounds in excess of 10 cents per pound average. Prices were higher than yesterday.

The Farmville market showed strength with a $10.68 average for 33,126 pounds.

Smithfield stepped out with an average of $13.50 for 50,000 pounds.

Chronic Pain in Hand Inconveniences Gandhi

Bombay, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi has had to change his writing and spinning habits because of a chronic pain in his right hand, it was learned today.

He is in Yeroda Prison as a result of his activities against British rule in India, and because of his ailment now has to write with his left hand. He spins on a new type of wheel, modeled after a sewing machine, furnishing motive power with his feet.

Tariff to Be Topic Of Curtis' Speech

Pennsylvania G. O. P. to Discuss Prohibition in Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Pennsylvania Republican leaders said yesterday that Vice President Curtis would be the principal speaker at the State Republican rally September 17, but that they expected him to talk about tariff and not prohibition.

Discussing reports that an attempt would be made to have Secretary Mills substituted for the Vice President because of the latter's prohibition views, Edward C. Martin, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Republican committee, said yesterday:

"Of course we don't expect Curtis to talk prohibition at the rally. His views on the tariff so nearly coincide with ours in Pennsylvania that we expect he will talk tariff for the most part."

Martin, who was accompanied by James Hazlett, chairman of the Philadelphia Republican committee, said however, he expected considerable discussion of prohibition at the State committee meeting which will precede the rally.

R. F. C. Questionnaires Mailed.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Questionnaires went out today to 50 Virginia counties several cities, for filing in the event three should be application for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in those respective localities.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 7 (Special). Military rites were accorded Franklin C. Ankeney, 32, Cumberland business man and World War veteran, who was killed Sunday in an airplane crash at Mexico Farms Airport, near here, when Miss Kathleen Trieber, 25, who was a passenger with him, also lost her life. His body was taken this morning to St. Paul's Cemetery, near Clearspring, Md.

Sweet Briar Art Course Expanded.

Sweet Briar, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Growth of interest among the student body in courses offered in the Sweet Briar College department of art has resulted in expansion of the department for the 1932-33 year to embrace courses in Greek and Roman archeology, Greek sculpture and history of architecture.

Scientists Discard Advice; Seize Lizards—Sans Ruin

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo, will soon receive six "perfectly sober" giant lizards as additions to his reptile house, he was advised yesterday. The creatures were recently captured in Haiti by an expedition from the Smithsonian Institution.

The specimens strongly resemble the long-extinct dinosaurs, only on a smaller scale. Their capture was effected only after a heated debate as to whether they should be fed a quantity of intoxicating beverages beforehand.

Natives on the island of Petite Gonave, where the lizards were found, advised members of the expedition to intoxicate their subjects before attempting capture. Only when intoxicated are the lizards, known as horned iguanas, entirely helpless.

Rum poured into their water would produce results, it was declared. In a sober state the creatures are extremely dangerous.

The lizards were sadly disappointed if they expected a "spree," however, because the expedition refused to produce the "rum" and captured six of their number by hand.

Virginia Station Agent Falls Dead After Flagging Train

Just after flagging a northbound Chesapeake & Ohio train at Clifton Station, Va., yesterday in quest of a "blind baggage" passenger, Thomas F. Coleman, 58, station agent, fell dead as he walked along the tracks with Robert Cross, Fairfax County undertaker.

Mr. Coleman had received a message from Manassas that a man was riding the "rods" on the George Washington Limited in a precarious position, and was exposed to possible fatal injury.

After searching along the cars, Coleman and Cross started to walk toward the locomotive for a conference with the engineer. As they strode along, conversing, the station agent collapsed. He was hurried toward the Alexandria Hospital, but was pronounced dead by a physician upon arrival at Alexandria Station, on the train he had flagged.

Mr. Coleman had been in the employ of the Southern Railway for more than 40 years, at one time being agent for the Washington division. Surviving are two daughters and a son. Mr. Coleman was a member of the Masonic Lodge at Manassas and a member of Acca Temple, Mystic Shrine.

Penitentiary Commitments Gain.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Maj. Rice M. Youell, superintendent of the State penitentiary, reports commitments during August of this year slightly more than double the number in August, 1931. The figures are 149 for last month as compared with 72 the preceding year, 94 in August, 1930, and 77 in August, 1929.

SLATED D.C. AWARDS PUZZLE ARMY HEADS

Chief of Staff and Inspector General Make Rapid Study on Cross of Malta.

The office of the chief of staff, United States Army, and the inspector general's office were somewhat baffled yesterday when the announcement was made that Maj. Gen. George H. V. Moseley, deputy chief of staff, would decorate 20 District policemen and firemen with the Cross of Malta at the police and firemen's annual baseball game at 2:15 p. m. Saturday in Griffith Stadium.

Several calls were made to the District Building and finally an officer was dispatched before the War Department discovered that the Cross of Malta is a gold or bronze cross, issued under authority of Congress and bestowed upon men who served under actual gunfire in foreign countries durnig the World War.

Five firemen and five policemen will also be awarded the Verdun Medal, issued by Verdun, France, to those who fought in the second battle in defense of that city. Commandant Emanuel Lombard, assistant military attache, French Embassy, will present these decorations of a round gold medal on a Legion of Honor ribbon.

As previously announced, gold and silver medals and bronze bars will be awarded to three policemen and three firemen for outstanding acts of valor.

Those who will receive the Cross of Malta are Policemen J. E. Bennett, William Melvin, R. H. Denbroeder, George Earl, T. C. Kelleher, J. E. Lowry, George Greenip, H. F. Elliott, E. T. Costello, W. E. Riley; Firemen C. D. Bartelmes, P. W. Graves, F. C. Larman, B. J. Burns, Scott Valen tine, J. R. Dickens, John Engle, G. W. Harvey, C. R. Bassette and T. L. Phillips.

Verdun Medals will be awarded to the following: Policemen R. N. White, W. McGrath, G. W. Chrisman, J. D. Bennett and A. G. Havens; Firemen D. J. Reilly, G. C. Moxley, W. B. Allen, J. H. Fincher, W. J. Schmitz and H. L. King.

Suburban Garden Club Meeting Set

Montgomery Group Will Convene Tomorrow at Somerset School.

The first fall meeting of the Montgomery Suburban Garden Club will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Somerset School, James C. Dulin, president, announces. Prof. J. E. Metzger, of the University of Maryland, will speak.

Mr. Dulin has received a communication from the George Washington Bicentennial Commission of Washington asking for the names and addresses of owners of gardens which in his opinion should be entered in the Bicentennial Garden contest. He asks members who wish to compete to notify him and receive further information.

A plan for developing new plant material has been suggested and will be brought before the meeting for discussion. It is in the form of a contest with reports on the progress in cultivation by the entrants and an exhibit of results at eetings. An appeal for cut flowers for city hospitals has been received and members who wish to send flowers will find water-filled receptacles to receive them at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church each Wednesday from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m., the plea states.

EVIDENCE PREPARED FOR ORNDORFF TRIAL

Alleged Slayer of Wife Is Uncertain on Presenting Statement.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7.—Whether a "statement regarding his wife's death" will be introduced before Judge Philip Williams in Circuit Court next Tuesday in behalf of the defendant, Kermit Orndorff, Star tannery laborer, when the tribunal convenes, was a matter of speculation here today as court officials went ahead with preparations for the trial. Orndorff is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of his wife.

While reports around the courthouse were to the effect that Orndorff had admitted killing his 20-year-old wife, Mrs. Frances Nicholas Orndorff, last December, during a family quarrel, court bailiffs went ahead summoning a venire of 40 men for jury duty. Frank H. Brumback, of Woodstock, and Floyd M. Brill, of Winchester, attorneys for Orndorff and his companion, Wayne ("Pete") McIlwee, jointly indicted, refused to discuss the case.

Neither attorney would confirm nor deny the report prevailing here that Orndorff had recently asked for Commonwealth Attorney Burr P. Harrison and then told the latter he (Orndorff) had struck his wife a fatal blow on the jaw with a broom stick, after she had reached for a shotgun during a quarrel.

The case had been slated for trial yesterday, but was postponed for a week.

Mrs. Orndorff disappeared last December 20. Search by Frederick County authorities was futile until July 8, when vultures began flying low over a mountainside grave where she had been buried after her body had been dismembered. Both McIlwee and Orndorff were arrested the day the body was found, later indicted and since have been in jail awaiting trial.

The dismembered remains of Mrs. Orndorff are being kept at a local undertaking establishment and will be offered at the trial as evidence, authorities declare.

After the gruesome evidence has been presented the jurors, the family of Mrs. Orndorff declares, funeral services will be held at the old home place at Strasburg, Va.

On viewing the dismembered body of his wife, Orndorff lit a cigarette and remarked, "Ain't this hell!"

Federal Doctor Speaks At Tuberculosis Session

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 7—An address on "Special Studies in Tuberculosis" by Dr. A. E. Russell, of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, was a feature today at the West Virginia Tuberculosis and Health Association convention at Elkins.

Dr. George F. Evans, superintendent of the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Hopemont, spoke on "The Tuberculosis Skin Test and the X-ray in Diagnosis," leading a discussion of the subject afterward. Reports of officers and county workers were discussed this afternoon.

Virginia Gasoline Audit Brings Added $50,000

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The division of motor vehicles announced today that its audits of gasoline distributors' accounts during August resulted in the additional assessment of $50,000 in taxes and penalties.

T. McCall Frazier, director, indicated that these audits have prevented a serious decline, temporarily at least, in gasoline tax collections.

16,000 Virginia Cars Fixed Under New Law

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The State Traffic Patrol Force has started its duty of ordering motorists to authorized stations for adjustments, required under the new motor code, the division of motor vehicles announced today.

The first 16,000 motorists summoned to make adjustments to brakes, lights and other equipment made the required repairs at a cost averaging $1 apiece.

Fair weather will prevail almost generally during the next two days probably followed by showers Friday night in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the Lower Lake Region. The temperature will rise quite generally Friday and as far East as the Appalachian Region Thursday.

16 More Arrested In Seed Loan Plot

President of Closed Bank Is Among Accused Conspirators.

Dothan, Ala., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Sixteen people were arrested today on Federal indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the Government in obtaining seed loans, making a total of 32 taken into custody in five south Alabama counties on those charges within the last two days.

With the exception of George W. Ray, former Dale County farm agent, who was required to post bonds totaling $9,000, each was released in bail of $3,000.

J. L. Crawford, president of the closed Dothan National Bank, and W. D. Jeffries, former Houston County tax collector, both of whom were indicted with several others last winter, were indicted on additional counts. Jeffries pleaded guilty to the first charges and was given a prison sentence.

COMEDY FEATURES CULPEPER RACING

Unruly Horse Finishes Last After Thrice Running Track Alone.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Sept. 7.—Culpeper's twelfth annual fair, which opened here Labor Day, today came to a close. Today's races were featured by unscheduled comedy. In the last race a horse named Lady May became very unruly at the starting point. The horse threw its jockey twice before it made any breaks for a start, then, starting ahead of the rest of the field, could not be stopped.

The unruly horse carried its jockey completely around the half-mile track three times without lining up with the rest of the field. The starters could only figure one way to make the start, so when Lady May completed her third round of the track and came by the starting post still running, the starters had the rest of the field lined up and started them along with Lady May, who finished last in the race.

S. D. Chamblin's bay gelding Rockney won two successive races, the third race of ½ mile against a field of five, and the fourth race of ⅝ mile against a field of three.

Reigh Celene, owned by W. T. Ralston, took the first race of ¾ mile, and Gray Fox, Clyde Johnson's entry, took the mule steeplechase.

Coast Guard Is Seeking Two Missing Students

Boston, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Two Harvard students, sons of George Upton, wealthy trustee, were sought by the Coast Guard today in Long Island waters. They are George jr., 18, a member of the incoming class of Harvard, and King Upton, '23, Harvard senior, who, in company with Capt. Milton Winder, of Virginia, left Marblehead Sunday aboard the 40-foot cabin cruiser Mobjack for Yorktown, Va.

They were last reported at Point Judith Sunday night. Upton today appealed to the Coast Guard headquarters here to conduct a search.

Bull Kills Farmer In Spite of Bullets

Virginian Shot Animal Six Times in Effort to Save Self From Death.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—L. Frank Freed, 48, well-known Augusta County farmer, was killed here today when attacked by an angry bull. There were indications of a terrific struggle.

Freed's wife, alarmed when he did not return home and when his dog returned without him, summoned neighbors and found the lifeless body of her husband. The bull had been shot six times by Mr. Freed in an attempt to drive him off. The animal later was killed.

Mr. Freed was not afraid of the bull, who had attacked Paul Flich, 13, last Tuesday. Mrs. Freed had been attacked last winter by the same animal. Freed is survived by his widow and one 14-year-old daughter.

Religious Freedom Monument Planned

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.). A monument commemorating the Virginia statute of religious freedom, drafted here in 1777, will be erected here next month for unveiling at Washington Bicentenial exercises, October 16.

Nearly a score of religious denominations will contribute the materials to go into the monument.

LEESBURG TEACHERS CONDUCT INSTITUTE

Nine-Month School Term Is Goal of Staff Through Economies.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 7.—Preceding the opening of schools here tomorrow a meeting by the Loudoun County Teachers Institute was held in the Leesburg High School auditorium today and was attended by all of the teachers of the county. Questions of vital interest to the schools were discussed.

O. L. Emerick, superintendent of schools, pointed out the objectives of the school year as a nine-month school term, good school attendance and a study of the failures and successes in school. Mr. Emerick appealed to the teachers to save on expenditures as much as possible so that there will be more money for salaries, thus increasing the possibility of a nine-month school term, which he declares is a necessity to the youth of the county.

A. O. Hutton, president of the association, outlined objectives for the year as follows: 100 per cent membership in State and county associations; encourage the reading of professional literature with a special emphasis on the State curriculum revision program; continue efforts in maintaining county library; inform pupils, patrons and other members of the good qualities of the schools of the county, and a nine-month term for every child in the county.

Miss Penelope Morgan, county home demonstration agent, and Miss Helen Pittman, county nurse, stated their willingness to cooperate in every way for better health, clothes for needy and hot lunches for pupils.

The following committees were appointed: Time and place—Mrs. Evelyn Adams, Miss Eliza Lunceford, and Miss Edna Brown; Membership committee—Miss Helen Kerr, Miss Elsie Hume, and Miss Ocie Graham; Program committee—H. P. White, Mrs. Margaret Cockerill and Miss Grace Shoemaker; Library—C. S. Monroe, A. D. Neale, Miss Kate White, Miss Margaret Tayler, Miss Ruth Dillon, Miss Lucille Jones and Mrs. Emil Windle. The time and place committee reported three meetings scheduled for the coming year, Ashburn, October 8; Aldie, January 14, and Round Hill, March 25.

Samuel C. Brittle Dies in Warrenton

Vice President of Bank Is Survived by Wife and Seven Children.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Sept. 7.—Samuel Cole Brittle, 63, executive vice president of the Peoples National Bank of this city, died at his residence here last night.

Mr. Brittle was connected with the Southern Railroad for several years and at the time of his death was a member of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va. He was born at Shipman, Nelson County, Va.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen Fitzhugh Bowen Brittle, and seven children—Clay Taliaferro, Peyton Nelson, Margaret Fitzhugh, Samuel Cole, William Fitzhugh, Mrs. Larkin W. Glazebrook and Mrs. John Ray Larcombe. A sister, Mrs. Baylor Jones, and two brothers, Taylor Brittle and C. M. Brittle, also survive. Funeral services were held at St. James Episcopal Church this afternoon.

Mrs. Lucy M. Boyer, 60, Dies in Clarke County

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Lucy Humston Boyer, 60, wife of H. E. Boyer, well-known Clarke County farmer and civic leader, will be buried here tomorrow in Mount Hebron Cemetery. She died at Bloomfield farm, the Boyer estate in Clarke County, early yesterday following an illness of two weeks.

Surviving Mrs. Boyer, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Misses Frances Naomi and Lucymae Humston Boyer, at home; two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Humston and Mrs. Thomas H. Sprint, of Winchester, and two brothers, J. L. Humston, of Clarke County, and E. L. Humston, of Middletown, this county.
